Alta. Grain Returns 'Way Down

Total Production Down 53 Million Bushels From '48

Grain crop production in Alberta slumped an estimated 53,884,000 bushels this year as compared with last year.

Preliminary estimates of production issued by the Alberta department of agriculture show a heavy decrease in total yields of wheat, oats, barley, rye and flax.

DROUGHT DAMAGE

Drought conditions seriously decreased crops, cutting wheat yield averages to 12.7 bushels an acre, oats to 24.4 bushels an acre, 18.9 bushels for barley, 8.5 bushels of rye and 8.4 bushels of flax.

Wheat crops in the province will yield an estimated 96,000,000 bushels this year as compared to 215,000,000 last year.

Oat production will drop nearly 20,000,000 bushels, from 75,000,000 last year to 55,000,000 this year.

BARLEY DOWN

Barley will produce an estimated 50,000,000 bushels as compared to 55,000,000 bushels last year.

Rye will be down from 9,900,000 bushels last year to 2,750,000 bushels.

Heavy reduction in the flax yield is also noted, with production dropping from 3,050,000 bushels last year to 316,000 bushels this year.

Total grain crop production this year is estimated at 234,066,000 bushels compared to 287,950,000 in 1948.

Parsons Ready To Be Mayor

Alderman Sidney Parsons has completed arrangements to contest the Mayoralty in the November 2 election.

He has been granted two years' leave of absence from his job with the National Employment Service, the leave of absence to become operative if elected chief magistrate.

Ald. Parsons said he was approached sometime ago by Citizens' Committee envoy to consider standing for election to the mayoralty. On the strength of this request he applied for leave of absence, and he expects to be considered by Citizens' Committee when its slate of candidates is drafted.

OTHER POSSIBILITIES

Others mentioned as possible mayoralty candidates are Duncan R. Innes, secretary of the Citizens' Committee, and Charles E. Garnett, its president.

If Alderman Parsons is nominated for the mayoralty there will be six vacancies on city council to be filled at election. He was elected for a two year term in the 1948 election, and will have to resign that seat if his name goes into nomination for mayor.

Car Prices Cut

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 4.—(UP)—The Crosley Motors Co. announced price reductions today ranging from $66 to $150 on its entire line of automobiles and trucks.

Home Building Shades All Previous Records

Value of city home-building permits at Sept. 30 stood 41.5 per cent higher than the record-smashing figure set in the whole year 1948.

A total of 2,514 new homes were authorized by the end of last month, worth $17,482,152, compared with a 1948 total of 2,184 valued at $13,281,908, according to figures released today by the city building inspector's office.

MORE PROJECTS

Total building permits for September reached $5,957,610, involving 776 different projects, compared with 420 worth $2,093,024 in the same month of 1948.

These brought the accumulated figure for 1949 up to 4,739 permits worth $26,481,762, an increase of 663 permits worth $5,558,902 over total 1948 figures of 4,076 valued at $27,122,329.

Last year's nine-month total permits numbered 3,311 and were worth $21,235,265.

351 HOMES

During September 351 homes (including 183 CMHC projects) were authorized, worth $3,371,709.

Commercial construction during the month involved 33 new projects worth $1,801,694.

Four new residential apartments were granted permits valued at $159,100.

Nine-month commercial construction stood at 211 projects valued at $8,376,975, and 15 new institutional building permits have been issued, worth $4,816,292.

MIDGET CAR VANQUISHES ALASKA ROAD

TWO-WAY JAUNT up Alaska Highway and back in tiny French Renault car was accomplishment of Robert Dow, left, and George Perkins, two Boston, Mass., university students. Equipped with sleeping bags, gas stove and food, pair covered 5,500 miles without mishap. Renault is first car of its kind to reach Fairbanks via famed Highway.

First French midget car ever to attempt the Alaska Highway arrived in Edmonton yesterday after a jaunt to Fairbanks, Alaska, and back.

The car, a French Renault, is owned by two Boston, Mass., university students, George Perkins and Robert Dow. They left here six weeks ago to start their trek northward.

COLOR MOVIES

Main purpose behind the trip, the pair explained, was to take color movie films of the scenery and to prove their conviction that "travel can be extensive without being expensive."

George and Robert estimate they covered about 5,500 miles in their Renault — a four-cylinder, 1,200-pound job that travels 60 miles to the gallon and has a top speed of 80 miles an hour.

Wherever they stopped, said the boys, the car immediately drew a crowd.

ENGINE IN REAR

Unusual feature of the Renault, besides its miniature size, is the fact that the motor is in the rear, while the luggage compartment occupies the space usually reserved for the engine.

Cost-Of-Living Index Delayed

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—(CP)—The cost-of-living index for August will be issued tomorrow at 1 p.m. CST, the Bureau of Statistics said today.

The index was scheduled to be issued today, but the bureau said it had been "unavoidably delayed."

The index for July stood at 162.8 —an all-time peak. The index 1935-39 equals 100.

Ratepayers to Vote On Auditorium Here

Commissioners Kill Progress

The thwarted attempt of two city commissioners to kill the auditorium bylaw prepared by council for submission November 2 was a reactionary attempt to return Edmonton to the status of a small unprogressive town.

Mayor Ainlay refused to have any part of this retrogressive step.

The city council repudiated the proposal and in doing so repudiated the commissioners whose backward-looking viewpoint renders highly questionable their further usefulness to the city during the crucial period of its growth.

Backed by the reactionary Journal newspaper, the reactionary commissioners attempted to draw a distinction between the projects that Edmonton needs and the projects the city does not need.

And when the auditorium and swimming pools were included in the non-essential list, the commissioners surely must have been thinking of a poverty-stricken city in some remote dust-bowl.

The reactionary commissioners argued their reactionary case on a string of figures designed to show that the carrying charges on these capital expenditures would be excessive, that the tax rate would be inordinately increased and that the taxpayers would labor under an intoierable burden.

The hoary cliche says that "figures do not lie."

But figures always lie when they fail to take into account all the material factors in a situation as well as those intangibles that cannot be expressed in terms of dollars and cents.

How can one measure the value, for instance, of extended and increased swimming pools to the health of Edmonton children, particularly in view of Dr. G. M. Little's statement that the three pools are now dangerously overcrowded?

What do figures mean when they are balanced against life and health?

How can one measure the value of an auditorium in terms of pleasure and entertainment and the cultural expansion of young Edmonton lives?

But even in the practical way the awesome parade of figures is misleading.

An adequate civic auditorium will provide an additional tourist asset of inestimable value.

It will bring conventions to Edmonton that will swell the list of new industries and increase taxable resources.

And if the auditorium is capably and resourcefully managed, it will be occupied three or four nights out of every week and yield a magnificent revenue.

In opposing the submission of this bylaw, the commissioners calculated the liabilities without mentioning assets.

They painted a fearsome picture of cost without considering revenue.

Every private corporation in the world has to borrow money when it wants to expand.

But it measures its borrowing, not entirely on the basis of interest charges, but on the basis of what that borrowed money will bring in.

Edmonton stands today at a crucial crossroads where it must either develop as a great metropolitan city or dwindle into relative unimportance. Edmonton must spend money to make money.

The two commissioners' stand in this matter indicates that so far as Edmonton's progress is concerned, they are dragging their heels.

2 Commissioners Are Overridden

Edmonton ratepayers will have a vote Nov. 2 on a $1.5 million auditorium, a $100,000 expenditure for a market in a surprise location, and $150,000 for a new swimming pool.

City council last night overrode Commissioners John Hodgson and D. B. Menzies' recommendation that money by-laws on these three items be deleted from 1950 capital estimates, but agreed to a one-year hoist in plans for a $1.6 million extension to Royal Alexandra hospital.

Council approved of commissioners' recommendation that an outdoor theatre, shelters and toilet facilities at city playgrounds, and repairs and extensions to existing swimming pools be deleted from proposed expenditures.

The special meeting, with a full attendance of aldermen, convened at 4.30 p.m. and adjourned at 7.30 p.m., after listening to delegations regarding the auditorium and hospital extension.

COMMISSIONERS' PLAN

Recommendation of two commissioners, with Mayor Harry D. Ainlay's signature missing from the document, was that the total $300,000 for two new swimming pools, and $300,000 for a market site and building, together with $1.5 million for an auditorium, be slash'd from 1950 capital expenditures.

Surprise location proposed for the market building is the northeast corner of 97 street and 101A avenue, on which council felt a much less expensive building can be erected than that suggested on the slated 103 avenue site between 100 and 101 streets.

Mayor Ainlay said D. R. Fraser & Co. Ltd., lumber merchants now operating on the site, have approached the city offering to sell eight lots on 97 street and five on 101A avenue. Commissioners have made a tentative offer of $50,000

Guay Said $10,000 'Sufficient' on Wife

By William Stewart

QUEBEC, Oct. 4.—(CP)—A pretty airline1office attendant testified today that J. Albert Guay bought a $10,000 insurance policy on the life of his wife three days before she was killed with 22 others in a plane crash Sept. 9.

The witness was Lucille Levesque, employe of Canadian Pacific Airlines, who appeared as a witness at Guay's preliminary hearing on a charge of murdering his wife.

Guay is alleged to have arranged for a time-bomb to be planted aboard the plane. The Crown maintains the explosion occurred about 40 miles east of Quebec, sending the plane crashing into rugged, wooded country.

Miss Levesque said she sold Guay a ticket for his wife's passage from Quebec to Baie Comeau, Sept. 6, three days before the flight that ended in disaster.

She declared that at the same time, Guay inquired about passanger-insurance rates and was informed they were 25 cents for $5,000 insurance, 50 cents for $10,000 and $1.25 for $25,000. Guay thought $10,000 was "sufficient" and bought a policy when he paid $40.40 for his wife's fare.

FISH STORY SO TALL MUST HAVE A LADDER

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Oct. 4.—(BUP)—A retired fisherman of Westport, New Zealand, drew a prize for the tallest fish story of the season: he caught crayfish with an ordinary household ladder.

"I just hang the ladder over the side of my boat," he said.

"I put small bait on the bottom rung and bigger baits on the upper rungs. The crays simply walk up the ladder and I knock 'em off into my boat."

Dead in Auto For Five Days

MOUNTAIN PARK, Oct. 4.—Body of Clement Curtin, 34, was found yesterday in his badly wrecked automobile at the bottom of an 80-foot embankment.

Curtin was last seen last Wednesday when he left the home of his brother, William, in Mountain Park, to drive to Coalspur where he worked.

When he did not return to Coalspur people there thought he was still with his brother and his brother assumed he had reached home safely.

The car ran off the road three miles south of Mercoal and was badly wrecked. It was found Monday by Tony Antoneko who was looking for some horses.

Crowd Threatens Accused In Airline Murder

QUEBEC, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Several persons in the crowd outside the courthouse shouted "Kill him" as J. Albert Guay was escorted inside for preliminary hearing today on a murder charge arising from the Quebec air line disaster.

Guay is accused of having a time-bomb planted aboard the plane which crashed, killing his wife and 22 others.

A few shouted "rat," and a few women tried to kick him as he was led through the crowd and several men shook their fists at him.

Britain Reduces Dollar Spending

LONDON, Oct. 4.—(Reuters)—Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, disclosed tonight that Britain's dollar spending was reduced by £10,000,000 in the third quarter of this year as compared with the second quarter.

In United States dollars, this is $28,000,000, but the figure was quoted at the pre-devaluation rate.

He also disclosed that in the 12 days following Sept. 18—devaluation day—Britain's reserves rose by £20,000,000 as a result of money reaching the country after the alteration of the exchange rate.

U.S. Industry Staggers From Steel, Coal Blows

By J. ROBERT SHUBERT
United Press Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 4.—(UP) — Unemployment mounted rapidly today as the impact of the steel and coal strikes spread by the hour through the nation's staggering industrial machine.

The number of strike-idled may hit 1,250,000 by the end of the week and 2,000,000 by Nov. 1 if the strikes continue.

As workers in allied industries were being furloughed by the thousands, new efforts were underway to end both the steel and coal walkouts, which stemmed from pension disputes.

In Washington, top-secret conferences between federal mediators and presidential assistant John R. Steelman were believed to have laid the groundwork for renewed efforts to settle the strikes. Some government action, perhaps from the White House itself, was expected by the end of the week.

New outbursts of gunplay rocked the violence-ridden coal fields. Non-union coal miners ambushed a group of union men at Pikeville, Tenn., wounding three of them with rifle and shotgun fire.

Officials at Grundy, Va., were investigating the killing of a non-union truck driver. He was crushed by a boulder.

The steel front was quiet as the strike of 514,000 CIO steelworkers entered its fourth day. Only independent steel mills and those which have signed contracts with the union were operating. Production was down to 8.2 per cent of capacity.

At least 100,000 "white collar" workers already have been furloughed as a direct result of the steel strike.

35,000 Ready to Open Bird Shoot at 5.11 AM

Crack of guns early tomorrow morning will mark the opening of the upland game bird season in Alberta.

Hunters will be permitted to shoot prairie chicken, Hungarian partridge, bush partridge or ruffed grouse half an hour before sunrise 6:41 a.m., tomorrow, but they will have to wait until 10 a.m. for the opening of the ring necked cock pheasant season.

Upland game bird season opens in all parts of the province tomorrow, but it will close Oct. 29 in the area south of the North Saskatchewan river and of highway 16.

NORTH SEASON TO NOV. 12

The season will extend until Nov. 12 in the area north of the boundary line.

Bag limits in the north section are 10 prairie chicken per day and 50 per season; five spruce partridge, hungarian partridge and ruffed grouse per day and 25 per season, and three pheasants per day and 15 per season.

South of the North Saskatchewan river and Highway 16, three prairie chicken, Hungarian partridge, bluse grouse and ruffed grouse may be taken 3 per day and 12 each per season. Bag limit for pheasants is three per day of 18 per season.

UPLAND BIRDS PLENTIFUL

All upland birds are reported to be plentiful, with many prairie chicken in the Edmonton area, and pheasants in the Winterburn and Spruce Grove districts.

About 35,000 licenses have been issued this season for hunting upland and migratory birds, as compared to about 27,000 last year, game branch officials said today.

Abundance of ducks in the Sullivan Lake district, near Coronation has resulted in reduction of the two-mile hunting limit to half-a-mile. Hunting within a half-mile of the lake shore is now permitted.

By-Laws Set For Fall Vote Near $5 Million

Ratepayers will find money bylaws totalling $4,967,500 waiting their approval or rejection at polling booths Nov. 2.

The $1,750,000 boost in money by-laws over the $3,237,500 recommended by city commissioners John Hodgson and D. B. Menzies results from last night's special council meeting.

With an expected school board capital expenditure of $1,700,000, and an expected separate school board item of $200,000, the city's total additional debt to be incurred next year will be $6,867,500. This will boost the city's total debt to $30,029,140.

NO PLEBISCITE

Amount of the increased debt requiring no plebiscite is $7,882,620.

A total of $1,568,300 will be obtained from land sales (about $700,000, according to Commissioner Menzies) and from utilities reserves (about $800,000).

Mr. Menzies said the $1,594,000 item for waterworks is the result of 10 or 15 years during which the city's water main system has fallen behind. It represents an expenditure for which no return in the way of local improvement taxes can be expected.

It will reflect back in an increased mill rate in future years, because more and more capital charges of this sort will have to be made against which no reserves are available.

Clouds, Rain Next 2 Days

Cooler weather accompanied by a few light showers is in store for the next several days in the Edmonton area, according to the weather forecaster.

Precipitation will be light and temperatures will run below the average of the past several days.

Temperatures last night were below freezing in only a few instances. Prince Albert reported the low of 24, Vermilion reading was 29 and Whitecourt 27.

Forecast for tomorrow is: Cloudy, occasional rain tonight and Wednesday afternoon. Light winds. Cooler. Low tonight 35, high tomorrow 53.

Ratepayers Vote On Auditorium

for the site, which Mayor Ainlay said will give a larger area than the 103 avenue proposal.

$200,000 SAVING

"I think the change in location will save us $200,000 and leave five clear lots for parking."

After council wound a tortuous way through five motions and amendments and tossed out commissioners' recommendation that the whole project be shelved, it agreed unanimously to Ald. Sid Parsons' motion that a by-law for $100,000 be submitted to taxpayers Nov. 2.

This amount, together with the $100,000 coming from the federal government for compensation on the present market site, should be enough to build on the new location, council felt.

During discussion on the auditorium question, council heard from Tom Baker, chairman of the Citizen's Auditorium Committee, that the proposed $1.5 million outlay will cost 20 cents a month on the average assessment.

With 30-year serial bonds, retired at $50,000 annually, plus interest charges decreasing from a first-year $52,000, he said the cost will be $2.16 a year on a $1,800 assessment or $2.40 on a $2,000 assessment. (These two figures, he said, are average assessments.) These figures are based on a 1948 assessment of $88 millions.

HIGHER ASSESSMENT

Ald. Dick Hanna later interjected that the 1949 assessment probably will be $100 million and that when the new re-assessment is introduced, it will go higher still. This will considerably lower the burden on each burgess.

Mr. Baker said homes built "in recent years under NHA or Integrated Housing schemes, and valued at $9,500 to $10,000, but assessed at 50 per cent, will bear a burden of only $6 per year.

While operating costs had not yet been supplied to him by Exhibition Board and the Recreation Commission, Mr. Baker felt that experience with the Stock Pavilion proved the proposed auditorium will pay its operating expenses.

Ald. George Gleave said he would not oppose submission of the auditorium by-law to a vote, but felt it is the wrong time to go ahead with the project.

"It is the taxpayers' right and I won't object, but it is not the time to build, when we have no money for housing, for swimming pools and for hospital extension."

MAYOR'S PLEA

Mayor Ainlay made an impassioned appeal to have the matter go to a vote. He said lower-paid workers and their families should have a chance to see good entertainment in a good atmosphere. He said he is not so much concerned as some aldermen that the auditorium pay its way, because we don't expect schools and parks to pay their way.

Some of Edmonton's finest artists have left because there is no adequate place for them to perform, he said. "Lee Hepner can't possibly remain here if there is no place to put on concerts. That so many jam the Pops concerts in the type of pavilion we have, and sit on those seats is a big tribute to him."

The public must be tested again on an auditorium, since more than 50 per cent—but less than the required two-thirds majority—voted for it two years ago against "red herrings and dubious blessings."

"If they don't want an auditorium then God bless them," said the mayor, choking with emotion.

CITES INDIVIDUAL CASE

He cited the case of a man who recently said he voted against the auditorium two years ago, but now has come to support the proposal to the extent of offering to put up $1,000 toward it.

Council then moved that the $1.5 million auditorium by-law be submitted.

Ald. Athelstan Bisset moved that council accept commissioners' recommendation on deletion of a $300,000 item for two new swimming pools. Ald. Parsons emphatically disagreed.

"A new pool on the South Side is an absolute necessity," he said, and urged construction in 1950 of one pool in the best possible location on the South Side.

TALK SWIMMING POOL

Mayor Ainlay said commissioners are meeting this morning with the school board to discuss installation of a swimming pool in the new east end school to be built at 116 avenue and 70 street. If council agrees to tentative proposals, it will give the heavily populated North Side a new closed pool.

School board plans call for a new high school west of South Side athletic grounds some time in 1951 or 1952, and the city is considering a deal with the school board under which a pool in the building would be available to the public after hours, on Saturdays and summer holidays.

Ald. Dick Hanna said there is no advantage in putting off construction of new pools—with two an absolute minimum, and moved the $300,000 item be submitted Nov. 2. But when it came to a vote, his motion went down in favor of the Parsons' proposal of $150,000 for one pool.

LENGTHY ARGUMENT

Shelving of the Royal Alexandra hospital extension was preceded by lengthy argument over the province's proposed hospital aid program, and by representations from Dr. D. R. Easton, hospital superintendent, and W. A. Porter, hospital board member.

Dr. Easton said a reorganization is necessary to make the hospital efficient, and more beds are essential. The $1.6 million item for expansion should be submitted to burgesses, many of whom have been kept waiting two months and more to gain admittance to it.

The hospital is the most economical unit, said Dr. Easton, and the proposed 140-bed extension will bring Royal Alex up to that figure. Present power house and other auxiliary features are adequate, he said.

MOST EFFICIENT

Hospitals with 75 per cent occupancy are most efficient, while anything more drags down staff efficiency and patient comfort. The Royal Alex maternity section consistently has 100 per cent occupancy, with three or four beds in the corridors, while occupancy on the whole runs between 88 per cent or 94 per cent.

Discussion arose around municipal hospital schemes for the area surrounding Edmonton, which Mayor Ainlay and Commissioner Menzies felt would relieve congestion in city hospitals by as much as 30 per cent. The mayor could see no reason for expansion of Royal Alex facilities; on the other hand, refusal to do so would be first step in inducing surrounding districts to go into municipalization of hospital facilities.

Such a project lags because Edmonton provides cheaper hospital facilities than the municipalities could provide for themselves.

Ald. Fred Mitchell pointed out that $1.3 million by-law be submitted following $280,000 for government grant) went down to defeat. Only Aldermen Mitchell, Gleave and Tanner voted for it.

Ald. Parsons' proposal that the matter be given a year's boat and that data be gathered on construction figures and basis of possible help from provincial and federal governments was passed 6-5. Voting for it were Aldermen Bowcott, Parsons, Douglas, Tanner and Ford, while opposed to it were Aldermen Gleave, Hanna and Mitchell.

J. A. Young Will Head City Group

Officers of the Personnel Association of Edmonton were elected for the coming season at a dinner meeting last night in the banquet room of the Corona hotel.

President for the coming year is J. A. Young, who succeeds A. A. Aldridge.

Vice-president elected is John I. Grodeland, and secretary-treasurer Arnold E. Henderson.

Five directors elected are Stewart Gordon, Miss Margaret Cogswell, C. R. Robertson, J. M. Brooke and William P. Wagner.

The organization is composed of personnel managers of Edmonton business houses and representatives of various educational bodies. Their objective is to pool information and knowledge for mutual advantage of all establishments.

Two reports on investigations of study groups formed by the Association last season were received during the meeting. Arnold Henderson reported on investigations and conclusions of a group studying the interviewing and testing of prospective employees.

Stewart Gordon reported on the findings of another group on the subject of merit ratings and attributes of employees for various positions in the business world.

Representative of the John Howard Society, W. W. Blackburn, addressed the meeting briefly on an appeal that is to be made to employers shortly to provide jobs for discharged prisoners.

Blackburn is executive secretary of the John Howard Society, which is organized to aid in the rehabilitation of persons on their release from jails and prisons.

Meeting also gave preliminary consideration to plans for further study groups, relative to personnel management, which might be conducted with the co-operation of the University of Alberta.

League Meets

The annual meeting of the Cromdale Community League will be held tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. at the rink house. Officers for the new season will be elected.

Commented George:

"That's where you really get the sort of scenery you associate with Alaska. Spectacular heights, gorgeous sunsets, glaciers . . ."

In addition to taking in Fairbanks, their original destination, the two visited Anchorage and Valdez.

"We covered nearly every main road in Alaska," said Robert.

When they return to Boston, they will make a selection of their pictures, group them according to subject, and prepare travelogues on the different locales.

MEXICO IN '48

Last summer George visited Mexico. He then showed his films and gave travel talks to various small groups in Boston, the scheme being intended in part to pay his university fees.

The boys had been planning their Alaska trip for months, they said. And both are determined to visit it again.

Noronic's Fire Drills Missed By Passengers

TORONTO, Oct. 4.—(CP)—A federal government inquiry into the Noronic disaster was told today that passengers did not take part in weekly fire drills.

Captain Howard R. Baxter of Montreal, marine superintendent for Canada Steamship Lines, the ship's owners, produced reports which showed that fire drills were held each Tuesday at 10:15 a.m. without exception.

Capt. Baxter said to his knowledge passengers did not take part in fire drills.

NO SURPRISE

Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, presiding over the inquiry, commented that such drills "obviously lacked any element of surprise."

In reply to a question by John J. Robinette, counsel for the Seafarers' International Union, bargaining agent for the crew, Capt. Baxter said that all members of the crew aboard the vessel at the time of the fire escaped because they were "familiar with the ship.

"They knew their way to the exits."

Stanley Ridge, district chief of the Toronto Fire Department, testified passengers on C deck could not get out of their cabins by the 24-by-36 inch windows without breaking the sash in the lower portion or removing screens in the upper portion.

WINDOWS CVERED

He said inspection of the vessel after the fire showed that each window was covered by a 12-gauge screen, 24 by 18 inches.

The hearing moved this afternoon to the fire-gutted hulk of the Noronic where members of the commission examined the ship's ruins under the guidance of experts.

'Getting Back to Normal' Is 2 Bankers' View of Canada

SAFECRACKERS in Edmonton scored their third break in two days last night when they punched a large safe at Adby Construction Co., 6605 118 avenue, and made off with $300 cash from strongbox. Jeff Moore, mechanic at construction plant, sadly looks at broken cash box which he found on arrival at work early today.

Two visiting Imperial Bank of Canada officials were smoothly non-committal regarding particulars of Canada's economic outlook during an interview here today.

J. S. Proctor, assistant general manager from the bank's head office at Toronto, and assistant western superintendent R. M. Virtue, Winnipeg, arrived here for conference with city officials today.

The two are staying in Edmonton for four days of their Imperial western branch office tour, of which the itinerary ranges from Victoria to Port Arthur.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK OK

Volunteered suave, cigar-smoking assistant general manager Proctor: "I wouldn't say Canada is facing any recession. Rather, we're getting back to normal in a sound, sensible way.

"There may be some soft spots showing up here and there in the general business picture. But you can say that Canada's general business outlook is second to none."

Imperial Bank of Canada officials are "amazed at the highly efficient manner in which the development of Alberta's oil industry is taking place." The two had no hesitation in pronouncing Alberta's oil discoveries "of world importance."

The Imperial Bank may or may not be contemplating expansion in the west. "Our development is proceeding on sound lines." Mr. Proctor said in side-stepping a direct answer. "Naturally, we are following the tremendous development here closely, however."

Maynard Sees Need For Family Prayer

Necessity to re-establish family prayer in the home was voiced here yesterday by Lucien Maynard, attorney-general of Alberta.

Mr. Maynard has been appointed general chairman of the mammoth Family Rosary Crusade Rally to be held in Clarke Stadium Sunday.

"Since accepting this position I have come to appreciate more and more fully the magnificent aims of this great crusade," he stated.

It is evident, he continued, that solution to dire political, social and economical ills must come from within.

"In other words this can only be done when individuals acknowledge the supremacy and Fatherhood of God," said Mr. Maynard.

EXPECT 50,000

A crowd of 50,000 persons are expected to attend the wind-up rally in Clarke Stadium this Sunday.

Mr. Maynard's position is the government convinced him of the absolute necessity of re-establishing family prayer, he said.

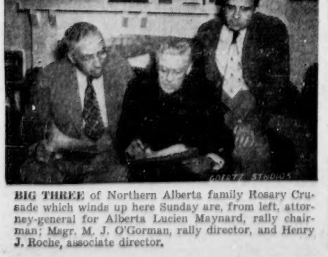

"My department has to deal with many family problems which would undoubtedly have been avoided had the parties concerned prayed together," he concluded.

Gun Victim Is Improving

Condition of a nine-year-old Rochfort Bridge youth, accidentally wounded Friday, was reported "satisfactory" by Royal Alexandra Hospital authorities here today.

Warren Hartman was wounded Friday near his home 72 miles northwest of Edmonton.

He is believed to have been with two school chums when accidentally shot by the discharge of a sawed-off .22 rifle.

BIG THREE of Northern Alberta family Rosary Crusade which winds up here Sunday are, from left, attorney-general for Alberta Lucien Maynard, rally chairman; Msgr. M. J. O'Gorman, rally director, and Henry J. Roche, associate director.

MAYOR'S TROUBLES

Mayor Harry Ainlay had telephone trouble last night—and several times it tossed the special council meeting well off the track.

City Clerk George Docherty has set up his election office in council chamber and installed two telephones to handle the business. Inadvertently or intentionally, both instruments sit on the mayor's desk.

No less than four times during the 3½ hour meeting the jangling of the telephone bell interrupted proceedings, and Mayor Ainlay had to answer queries about more election workers.

At one point, though, the mayor turned the tables.

About 7 p.m. he phoned his home to tell Mrs. Ainlay it probably would be another hour before he could get home for supper—which naturally brought wide grins to aldermanic faces.

Here they conferred with Curtis B. Munson, president, Sterling Collieries Ltd.

Airman Shows Little Progress

Condition of LAC G. W. Carter, unconscious since a head-on collision on the Banff Highway Sept. 24, was reported unchanged today by University Hospital authorities.

Driver of one of the cars in the crash, the Rockliffe, Ont., airman is suffering from a fractured skull. Although not yet out of danger, his chances of recovery are good, said the hospital.

LAC Carter was transferred from Calgary to the University Hospital here Saturday.

Incredible Carelessness

The city commissioners must definitely accept responsibility for permitting an employe to permit his department to get into such deplorable condition as Mr. Justice G. B. O'Connor's report indicated the Edmonton fire department has ingloriously attained.

The plain fact established by the report is that the department is totally incapable of dealing with the normal fire risk in this city.

Fire fighting methods are inadequate. Equipment is insufficient.

Methods of training are practically non-existent.

The almost incredible fact is also established that most of the conditions condemned by the Tweedie fire department report in 1928 still prevail.

The O'Connor report places the blame for these alarming conditions squarely upon the fire chief.

But the fire chief is under the administrative direction of the commissioners.

And it should not require a public investigation to uncover the fact that any civic employe is not doing his job.

The commissioners, for instance, must have been blind indeed if they permitted the chief to conceal from them the plain fact that the Tweedie recommendations, made 21 years ago, have never been implemented.

If there is inadequacy in the leadership of the fire department, it follows inevitably that there is inadequacy in the civic administration.

If the commissioners had been on their job, the fire chief would have been on his job too.

It all boils down to the contention which The Edmonton Bulletin has been advancing for a year and a half, and which was endorsed in principle by the council a year ago August, that Edmonton desperately needs an overall civic survey to eliminate those archaic methods and those obsolete viewpoints in the civic block which retard Edmonton's progress and which, in the case of the fire department, have thrown every building in the city into jeopardy.

This survey can no longer be postponed.

It was bad enough when administrative inadequacy menaced Edmonton's development.

It is too much when administrative inadequacy menaces the lives and property of Edmonton citizens.

Life's Darkest Moment

Hats Off to a Splendid Team

Edmonton's hat should be off with a flourish to the Edmonton Eskimos for a masterly display of football and sportsmanship on Saturday night.

Indeed, if the general management of the Stadium and its grounds and its incidental performances had been half as capable as the team itself, Saturday night's game could have been chalked up as one of the sports events of the decade.

Any first year team that could hold the powerful Stampeders to a 12-8 score has done something to be proud of.

For the Stampeders are a phenomenal football team. They have weight, intelligence, skill and resource. They were and still are the champions of Canada and they deserve the honor.

Edmonton's performance against them on Saturday night, then, is something that could only be accomplished by first class playing, first class management and first class coaching.

The Finding Ignores the Facts

The order for the retention of six-day milk deliveries in Edmonton is an order based on reasoning in absolute contravention of the evidence.

The Board of Public Utilities Commissioners finds that the curtailed delivery does not menace the health of children.

The inference is that every mother who complained of the lack of fresh, sweet milk for her children was not telling the truth.

The further inference is that Dr. G. M. Little, medical health officer, who plainly stated that the six-day delivery was dangerous to the health of children, did not know what he was talking about.

In other words, the distinguished gentlemen who sit on the Board of Public Utilities know more about medicine and public health than the thoroughly competent official who does a thoroughly competent job as medical health officer for the city of Edmonton.

They know more about the problems of motherhood than those harassed housewives without refrigeration (and 35 percent of the homes in Edmonton are in this class) who are faced with the task of finding food for their babies out of bottles of sour milk.

This exhibition of omniscience is not in the best interests of the community.

It is an inept decision based on a flagrant ignoring of the facts.

Interested organizations should find a way of appealing it.

Letters to the Editor

Veterans' Housing

Editor, Bulletin—In reply to the letter in your paper recently from the lady who signed herself "A Widow," there must be something wrong regarding her statement that her son owned a house prior to enlistment in the forces and that he failed to get possession of same after being discharged.

Order No. 511 of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, which came into force May 21, 1945, gives him the right to regain possession of his property. If he desires possession of his house as a personal residence for himself the tenant may be directed to vacate by notice under this particular order.

The question of veterans who have purchased houses since discharge is dealt with by Mr. Robert English, rentals commissioner, who, after perusing all the facts presented to him decides whether or not the applicant should have possession.

With regard to the matter of boasting about putting veterans into houses, the question now is to try to keep a shelter over their heads at rentals they can afford to pay. The lady's statement that incomes have doubled and tripled is ridiculous, because there are thousands of persons at the present time who are earning between $125 and $150 per month and they certainly cannot stand any further increase in rental.

As to the statement that I have not heard my voice regarding the high cost of liquor, tobacco and entertainment, I can assure the lady that the prices of these luxuries has caused me grave concern for some years. However, I fully realize that the government must tax the citizens to obtain money for social services, etc., and there is no more sensible way of raising the necessary funds than by taxing luxuries. Veterans, like everyone else, have to grin and bear it.

Believe it or not, we are endeavoring to prevent trouble, but unless the government maintains rent regulations until the housing situation in this city improves, the result will be increased rentals with the consequent failure to pay by those who have not the means to pay. This is what we wish to avoid.

"Cradle Board"

Editor, Bulletin.—Re letter in the Bulletin from E. J. Lee of 9025-128 avenue.

I am also interested in the name of the "baby-carrying" apparatus used by the Indian mothers.

My Encyclopaedia Britannica Junior, which affords our whole family a world of information, states that the North American Indian mother carries her papoose in a "cradle-board" strapped to her back.

Are there any other authentic words for it — do any of you readers know?

Beautiful Rossdale

Editor, Bulletin.—Well, so our perennial Mr. Speed is going to make the banks below the Macdonald hotel into a "breath-takingly beautiful terraced garden," is he?

If Mr. Speed, as mayor, can make such gardens down here in Rossdale (and no matter how he dresses the banks of the hill, it still Rossdale), with such powerful opposition as the cinders from that "breath-takingly horrible" power plant, he's the man for me.

It is easy to visualize those gardens from our point of view. The flowers and shrubs will have a lovely coat of black, the benches will be white with black stippling, and the grass will be a beautiful dusty green. The dust, of course, will be made up of equal parts cinders and just plain dust, of which we have so very much down here, due to the excellent condition of our streets. These colors are the new "fall" shades.

No, not even Mr. Speed, with all his persistence, could make a thing of beauty and a joy forever of any part of Rossdale, and if his platform is to be the gardens he can plant, he might as well give up right now.

It will take more than mere promises to convince the citizens of Rossdale that gardens as proposed by Mr. Speed will beautify our community as long as Superintendent McFarland's riverside edifice continues to belch forth our daily dose of cinders.

Railway Salaries

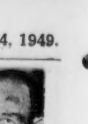

Editor, Bulletin.—In reference to an article by Stan Ross last Saturday which indicates that the rail workers are highest paid. Even if his figures were correct in regards to other industries (which I doubt if based on all railway employes) he has painted a very unfair picture of the situation. It is not nearly as rosy as Mr. Ross would have you believe. It may be true that railway men earn more than some industries. As a practical railroad man I know that many railway groups work excessive hours to accomplish this. For your information, Mr. Ross, did it ever occur to you that men in the running trades are subject to call 24 hours per day including Sundays? It is not unusual for this group to work 36, 60 or more hours a week with no such a thing as time and one half for overtime.

The rate of pay for freight conductor is $9.50 per hundred miles or eight hours. Now, Mr. Ross, does that not compare favorably on hourly basis with schedule rates in any of the trades you mention? I believe it should not be too complicated a calculation to grasp, even for a lawyer, that if a carpenter works 8 hours at $1.50 per hour he is bound to earn less than a trainman who works 14 hours at $1.00 per hour. It is my further belief that the railway employes are as much entitled to a 44 hour week with Sundays off as are lawyers, carpenters, milkmen or any other group.

You say, "The average for steam railway operations is $56.64 per week." Do you think Mr. Ross that this is an exorbitant figure to keep a family of 4 or 5 in these times of ever rising prices? Could you provide a family of 5 with a decent standard of living on $56.64 per week or less? If you can please send me the formula. I have worked on the rails for many years and I defy you to name one employe who made a fortune solely from the highest paid rates that the railways provide.

Great Importance Of Coal Reserves

We hear so much about the tremendous oil reserves to be found in the McMurray tar sands that we look upon these reserves as our second line should our oil wells give out. In fact it is only because it still costs more to produce oil from the sands than from wells that we do not consider the sands of equal importance now. There is always the hope improved methods may yet place the tar sands on a commercially competitive basis.

However, we forget gasoline can also be made from coal and the cost of production is not much higher than the cost of producing it from oil. A recent report indicated that gasoline made from coal costs about 10c per gallon more. That is a smaller difference than is to be found in the sale price of gasoline itself in various localities.

Cheaper Than Tar Sands?

If your oil wells give out, we may discover coal mines will produce our gasoline, and produce it for just as low a price or even lower than can the tar sands.

That is an important possibility because, according to the government, Alberta has more than three-quarters of Canada's total coal reserves and they amount to 46 billion tons. That would provide a tremendous quantity of gasoline, certainly more than the present generation will see used.

But coal will provide more than that.

It will provide coal tar and coke and pitch. It provides benzene, naphthalene, carbolic acid, anthracene, creosote, pyridine and a variety of resins, the basis for dyes, vat colors and mordant dyes. It provides a variety of medicines, antiseptics.

In fact a number of the most important medical discoveries have come from coal tar products.

Coal also provides explosives such as TNT and picric acid. It forms the basis of tar gas. It is used in making synthetic materials of many kinds. The manufacturers of perfumes, photographic materials, paints, roofing materials, rubber and timber preservatives all use large quantities of coal.

In fact, if one took the time to list its thousands of present day uses, we would discover coal plays an important part in almost every phase of our daily lives.

That is the substance of which we have about 46 billion tons underground. That is the product we market at the rate of about 8 to 10 million tons per year.

Production Depends Upon Markets

It would be foolish to expect to change our coal fields into vast industrial plants during any brief period. In fact, the economical production of many of these products depends upon the market for others. The market for all of them would depend upon an investment of hundreds of millions of dollars.

We cannot expect any miracles. But neither should we overlook the true value of this resource which could carry us through even though the McMurray tar sands had never been discovered and would provide us with an endless variety of other products on the side.

Having this resource should give us a comfortable sort of feeling because it does assure us that, for many years to come, Alberta is certain of abundant supplies. Yet that comfortable feeling is not enough. Some extra effort should be made to start development of these products.

It might be a slow process, but surely if oil companies are ready to invest hundreds of millions in oil and gas, other agencies should be ready to invest in these other products provided we are forcefully brought to their attention.

Mistaken Notions On English Views

Some months ago I mentioned the deplorable amount of anti-American talk in Britain; and the equally deplorable and even more unjustified abuse of Britain that was being poured out in the U.S.A.

I quoted from a florist's advertisement published in Spokane, Washington, to give an example of this.

Now Mr. Bob Peters, the florist in question, replies to my comment in an open letter:

"Since you do me the honor of quoting my little column in your big column, I feel obliged to tug the cover off my typewriter and quote your big column in my little one."

Bob is a friendly fellow at heart, and I imagine was just trying to have a bit of fun. But the points he raises in his reply seem to me to raise big questions.

"However unfunny you fougd those remarks, they were not slanted at Britain especially," says Bob Peters, "but rather at the whole philosophy of raiding the American Pantry.

"I don't question the gravity of Britain's economic crisis, or of the world in general. But I question the means which have been taken to solve the problem. I question the fairness of my paying an excellent tax to help finance an experiment in Socialism which is not going so well, as attested by no less than Mr. Winston Churchill."

Partial Witness

Come, come, Bob, you must know better than to drag out the old warhorse Churchill as an impartial witness as to the merits of Socialism in Britain.

After all, the old boy hopes to defeat the present Socialist government in the forthcoming election.

He can no more be expected to extoll the virtues of Mr. Attlee's government than Tom Dewey could have been expected to go up and down the U.S.A. telling the voters that Harry Truman was doing a good job.

But that is not what gives me the laugh. The U.S.A. is not "paying an excellent tax" to help finance the upkeep of the Royal family, nor for the King's trip to South Africa, nor anybody's wedding trousseau. Most of these accusations were made in U.S. papers not so long ago.

But the one we belly laugh is the reference to "Socialism."

Not a stone's throw from Spokane, where Bob Peters writes his advertising column, is a 100 per cent made-in-U.S.A. experiment in Socialism which literally dwarfs anything that Britain has undertaken to date.

I refer, of course, to the Coulee power dam, which has brought prosperity to a region the size of an Old World empire.

Spokane's prosperity would sink to an all-time low if the Socialistic power dam went out of business tonight. The market for all kinds of flowers, incidentally, would shrink overnight.

The difference is that in the good old U.S.A. they don't call their Socialism Socialism. They do what the Tories did all these when I was a boy. They wrap up their Socialism in the good old flag and they sell it to the people under another name.

Hates Her Dependence

Bob Peters does not think I am right in saying that Britain loathes her dependency on the U.S. He writes:

"I don't think she'll do that—not so long as Overlord General Knox is doing so well in his gold farm down at Fort Knox."

You in the U.S.A. will soon find, Bob, what we in Canada will find: That any little sacrifice it takes to keep Britain strong and prosperous are not acts of charity, in the old bad sense of that word.

The U.S.A. needs British partnership quite as much as the British Commonwealth needs the U.S.A.

The aim of all of us should be to help Britain to help herself without doles or handouts but to help ourselves—indeed, save ourselves in so doing.

ODDS AND ENDS By Harold L. Weir

What Happens to Real Simon Pure Buttermilk?

A pertinent question which has been furrowing this troubled brow for months and months is this:

What happens to the real honest-to-God buttermilk that is left when milk is churned?

We wish somebody would tell us because we have been athirst for a beaker of this luscious beverage for longer than we usually care to entertain a thirst, certainly longer than we usually do carry one around.

We are aware that a certain synthetic concoction villainously called "buttermilk" is peddled by the dairies.

And, if one shakes it vigorously to get the lumps out of it, this concoction may have a certain flavor.

But to compare it with the true, the bluithful buttermilk fresh from the churn, is like comparing bathtub gin with the nectar of the gods.

If butter is still made in the same old way it was made when we were a youth, that is to say by agitating sour cream, there must be plenty of real buttermilk floating about somewhere.

Acquired Passion

It is no secret that buttermilk is something of an acquired taste. We have never heard, for instance, of a babe-in-arms yelling itself blue in the face for a schooner of this most blessed of all dairy products.

But once this passion is acquired, certainly the fires of desire for real buttermilk cannot be quenched by quaffing any quantity of the thick and jejune substitute.

In our own case, we confess with shame that our love for buttermilk was born out of the accidental discovery that it was a marvelous cure for hangovers.

We do not propose to enlarge at length on the virtues of a buttermilk chaser for those semi-writhing with alcoholic embarrassment.

But the manner in which we made this world-shaking discovery was so unique that we are conscious of a burning desire to recount it to the world.

It all began when our uncle, residing in a rural section of a certain western province, decided to paint his new house.

WEIR

And then our uncle found that the only painter available was an ancient relic known popularly as Uncle Dudley who was the despondid painter when he was not more than nine-tenths drunk, which was seldom.

Uncle Dudley was crowding 76, but he was vigorous, agile and well-preserved, as who wouldn't be who had soaked his insides in a particularly vicious distillation of cheap rye for some 55 or 60 years?

Uncle Dudley, as we say, was a magnificent painter until he had passed the nine-tenths mark when he was prone to paint cats and dogs instead of walls.

He had a distressing habit, also, of falling off roofs.

While he was with our uncle, he painted two dogs and three cats a vivid shade of green and fell off the roof four times.

Then our uncle discovered his source of supply, a two-gallon jug and dumped it in the water tank of the hot water furnace.

Besides some rusty, greasy water and bales of cotton waste, this water tank contained sundry odds and ends that had been chucked into it by the carpenters. One of the helpers, a devotee of eating tobacco had used it freely as a cuspidor.

But Uncle Dudley discovered what had happened.

Surreptiously he lighted a small fire in the furnace enough to circulate the water. Then he sneaked from room to room and drained the radiators—and drank it—every drop.

To The Rescue

The hangover that Uncle Dudley acquired from this mixture of rye, rusty water, decaying tobacco juice and sundry other something that even Dante could not have described.

But as he lay moaning on his bed of pain, he called constantly for buttermilk. And when he had guzzled a quart or so of it, he arose and wobbled to his brushes.

After an hour and another quart of buttermilk Uncle Dudley was playfully chasing a cat with a brushful of yellow paint.

Thus we learned in our verdant youth of the miraculous powers of this amazing fluid.

Smiles

A doctor who had a neurasthenic patient said to him, "Say each morning, 'The Mediterranean sun is beating down on me and curing me!'"

A week later his patient went to report progress.

"Doctor," he said, "I'm much better."

"Good," replied the doctor. "Go on with the treatment, and don't forget that the Mediterranean sun is beating down on you."

In another week the doctor called on him and was horrified to find the blinds down.

"What's happened?" he inquired of the maid.

"Please, sir, Mr. Robinson's very ill."

"Heavens, what was the cause?" "Sunstroke, sir."

Mrs. Sharp: "My husband has changed a lot since our marriage. I made up my mind about that. He eats out of my hand now."

Mrs. Brown: "Really?" It must save you a lot of washing up!"

Druggist—"Can I offer you something for that cold of yours, Mr. Ryan?"

Ryan—"Faith, and if ye want it, it is for nothing ye can be having it."

The doctor was examining a case of nurses. He described the condition of a hypothetical patient and asked one of the young women how much morphine, in her opinion, should be administered.

"Eight grains," the nurse replied.

The doctor made no comment, but passed on to the next student. When he came again to the young woman who had prescribed the morphine, she nervously exclaimed: "I wish to correct the mistake in my last answer. I meant to say one-eighth of a grain."

To which the doctor wryly replied: "Too late—the man is dead."

Two United Kingdom firms are to give what is believed to be the world's first demonstration of 625-line large-screen television. It will take place at the International Television Exhibition in Milan, which opens on Sept. 16th. The Palazzo dell' Arte, which will house the exhibition, contains at one end a large theatre, where large screen television will be seen by visitors. At the opposite end is a large studio which will be used as a television studio.

From Today's News

By DE WITT MACKENZIE

Chinese ability to devise problems which are difficult to solve has given rise in the western world to the term "Chinese puzzles" as descriptive of anything intricate.

That term appropriately represents the present condition to which civil war has brought old China.

Having within her borders more than one-fifth of the globe's population, she continues to be accorded the name or one of the Big Five world powers.

Yet she is part Communist and part Nationalist, with two rival governments, both seeking the favors of foreign countries.

Russia was quick to recognize the new Communist regime established in Peking and the Chinese Reds now have invited formal recognition by the rest of the world.

Meantime the United Nations has before it a Chinese Nationalist charge that Russia is backing the Chinese Reds with military aid.

That's the Chinese puzzle which Britain, the United States and other powers have to solve. It's a tough one and filled with dangers.

Britain announces that she is ready to discuss the new Red regime with 18 other countries, comprising the North Atlantic alliance and the British commonwealth.

The western democracies, which have been battling Communism in the cold war must now decide whether they want to compromise in China, the vital Asiatic theatre in this war of the ideologies.

Moscow's recognition of the Peiping government is a hard blow to the Nationalist regime in the big southern port of Canton. This comes as both sides are deploying their forces for a new phase of the great battle on which hinges possession of Canton.

As this conflict boils up the Nationalist cabinet has accepted the resignation of the government's chief-of-staff, Gen. Ku Chu Tung, who has been charged with inefficiency. Gen. Hsiao Yi-Tsu, vice-minister of national defence, has been named acting chief-of-staff in this crisis.

One of the most important figures in the new Communist government is Gen. Chou En-Lai, who has been made premier and foreign minister under the big chief, Mao Tze-Tung. The latter is chairman of the "People's Republic of China."

The general is about 50. Like Nationalist Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, as a youth he was a disciple of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, father of the republic. Indeed, Chou worked with Chiang in those early days, but they broke over the question of Communism which Chou embraced.

U.S. Will Ignore China Red Regime

Recognition Of Peking Government Said Unlikely

By EDWARD V. ROBERTS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. — (UP)—Foreign policy experts said today there appears no possibility that the United States will recognize the new Communist regime in China now or for a long time to come.

They said any Chinese regime, regardless of its political views, will need the United States far more than this country needs China. By withholding recognition, they said, America should be able to gain important cold war advantages.

BRITISH MAY

Political quarters here face without concern the possibility that British recognition soon may be extended to the Reds. Such a step, they said, might well be dictated by the commercial interests of a nation facing bankruptcy, but it would not mean any Anglo-American split on far eastern policy.

The State Department promised yesterday to consult Congress before any steps are taken toward recognition of the Chinese Reds.

OPPOSITION STRONG

Members of Congress who actively follow foreign affairs are almost unanimously opposed to diplomatic relations with the Communist government at this time.

In addition, the United States plans to consult further with about a dozen "interested and friendly" governments on the China question. There appeared to be no disposition at the state department to speed up these talks.

Although State Department far eastern experts are frequently accused of favoring the Chinese Communists, these officials appeared singularly unimpressed with the pledges of the Communist People's Republic which was proclaimed Friday in Peiping.

Inside Hollywood

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD.—(AP)—So far no tourist has used a Trojan Horse to get within film studio walls. But they've tried about everything else.

Take it from Bob Callender. He guards the gate that leads through the publicity department and into MGM studios.

"Everybody wants to get into the plant," he says. "I get well-dressed men who look as though they have the highest Dun and Bradstreet ratings in the country. And men with tattered coats and holes in their soles."

Getting inside a movie studio is almost as hard as peeking into the Kremlin—if you have no friend in the industry. That's why the theme song of Callender's job is "No, No, A Thousand Times no."

"People think I make up the rules," he remarked. "They think they can wheedle or bribe me and gain entrance."

SCREEN TESTS

The question he hears most often is "May we see the studio?" Next comes "How about a screen test?"

"I pass the buck on that one," said Callender. "I send them next door to the casting department. They can hear the 'No' there."

Scads of job-seekers drop in. They prefer acting jobs, but nowadays they'll take anything. They seem to think if they can land any studio position stardom will inevitably result.

LEGS HELP

"During the war, we had to replace our messenger boys with girls," Callender recalled. "The reception room overflowed with young applicants. When we asked if they were interested in acting, the answer was always 'Yes.'"

The word got around that the studio didn't want its messengers to be budding actresses, so the girls—wearing inch-thick make-up—began murmuring "Dear, no, we want to stenographers."

Naturally, healthy gams are important to messengers, so Callender always asked applicants: "How are your legs?" One girl misunderstood. She lifted her skirt and glided around the room like a Powers model.

TEMPERS BLEW sky high in crucial weekend series between Yankees and Boston Red Sox. Birdie Tebbetts of Sox argues with umpire Bill Grieve on disputed play at plate. Sox lost both decisions—argument and ball game. Later they lost pennant.

HOPES WERE STILL high for St. Louis Cardinals Sunday with 13-5 victory over Chicago Cubs. Brooklyn Dodgers, however won National League pennant with 9-7 overtime win over Phillies. Above shot shows Stan Musial sliding across with first run after Enos Slaughter singled. At left is Cub catcher Bob Scheffing, while umpire Babe Penilli calls play. Ron Northey (3) also watches play.

Spent Teams Set For Dime Series

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—Two spent but triumphant baseball teams caught their collective breaths yesterday after perhaps the most exhausting finish in the history of the major leagues, and braced themselves for a playoff starting Wednesday.

Brooklyn Dodgers were still panting from the extra-inning thriller over the tough Philadelphia Phillies which enabled them to hit the tape a length ahead of St. Louis Cardinals.

Casey Stengel's almost-fabulous Yankees, who rose to dramatic heights in smashing back the final challenge of the Boston Red Sox, indulged in a light practice.

Today the Brooks plan to visit their rival's huge Yankee Stadium and line their sights on its fences in a batting drill.

The National League champs recall that they were granted no workout in the Stadium before the '47 "subway series," which they lost to the Yanks in a tingling seven-game set.

SOLD OUT

Every box and reserved chair both at the Stadium and Ebbets Field—whence the series will transfer for three games starting Friday—were sold during the final delirious stages of the pennant races.

A few determined fans approached the Stadium box office during the day to purchase standing-room tickets at $4 each.

The Yankees may be a solid 2-to-1 choice by the time they square off at 2 p.m. EDT (11 a.m. Edmonton time) Wednesday, especially if Joe DiMaggio shows no ill effects.

But, with or without DiMaggio near his best, the Americen-Leaguers will be favored on past record alone. They lost only one game in whipping the Dodgers in the '41 series, the memerable set-to in which catcher Mickey Owen dropped a third strike on Tommy Henrich for the final out of a game and the Yanks came on to win.

None who witnessed the '47 brawl between the same clubs will ever forget the ninth-inning, two-out double by Cookie Lavagetto, who destroyed Bill Bevens of a no-hitter and salvaged a game which the Brooks had given up for lost. Nor the sensational catch made by stubby little Al Gionfriddo —now with Montreal—off Di-Maggio to save a later game in the Stadium.

Pee Wee Reese, the only member of the present Dodgers who will have played in all three Interborough series, complained yesterday: "Doesn't any team except the Yankees ever get in the World Series from the American League?"

Wednesday's opener shapes up as a duel between two crafty left-handers of the older school —Elwin (Preacher) Roe for the Dodgers and Ed Lopat for the Yankees. Both are 18-game winners, and both specialize in the sneaky, control pitching which baffles a batter rather than blows him down.

It is considered a possibility that manager Burt Shotton may pass over Roe in favor of his big Negro rookie, Don Newcombe, who racked up 17 victories after reporting to the Dodgers from Montreal in May.

SLIDING across home plate with Boston run is Vern Stephens. Bobby Doerr's double into right field gave Red Sox first run against New York Yankees in ninth inning. Yanks won, however, 5-3.

CURRIE STILL SILENT ON PUCK PERSONNEL

Frank Currie's Edmonton Flyers are starting to take definite shape.

Last night at the Capital City Gardens, Currie's brave band of 21 were formed into lines, and the old stand-bys seated in the spacious stands were treated to half an hour of hockey betwixt two teams.

Currie seems set with the Barnie Bathgate, Alex Pringle and Ady Clovechok on the first line. Col'n Kilburn, Doug Anderson and Steve Latoski are combined for the second offensive unit with the third line still a tossup.

Currie, forever silent, refused to comment. "You can see the players," he says. "Judge for yourself."

Though Ray Frederick is almost certain for the goal berth, localite Ralph Hansch has been showing every bit as good as the newcomer. The team goes through the same business tonight. There's only 11 days remaining before the opener against Calgary in the southern city. Three players have to be cut loose between now and Oct. 15.

Nick Metz Likes New Quakers

SASKATOON,—Oct. 4.—(CP)—Saskatoon Quakers' hockey training camp total stood at 24 players today as two more pucksters reported to the Western Canada Senior League club.

Latest arrivals were rightwinger Squee Allen, fromerly with Dallas of the SHL and defenceman Ken Barlowe, former Regina Pat junior. Barlowe checked in yesterday after attending the pro camp of New York Rangers of the NHL. Allen has applied for h's reinstatement to amateur ranks.

Other newcomers to take to the ice over the week-end were defencemen Vic Myles and Don Clarke, and winger Len Wallington. Clarke last winter played for St. Louis and Springfield in the AHL.

NO DEFENCE PROBLEMS

Coach Nick Metz' defence problems are expected to be cleared up later this week when Norm Blackett, formerly with Spokane, reports from the Chicago Black Hawks' training camp.

Left-winger Cy Rouse, currently attending Rangers' eastern camp, also is expected to make his appearance here late this week.

Along with Myles, Barlowe and Clarke, coach Metz can count on Jim Elliott, Tom Pollock and Billy Johnson for defence.

With their first full week of pre-season scrimmaging behind them, Quakers threw open their doors to the public yesterday, and approximately 500 rallbirds took in the show. Tommy Burlington, centreman last season with Owen Sound Mercurys of the senior OHA, delighted the spectators with his fine offensive work.

A "meet the Quakers" night is planned for next Saturday when an inter-squad exhibition game will be played. Metz hopes to pick his 1949-50 squad from the contest.

IT WAS gloomy Sunday for Boston Red Sox manager Joe McCarthy when Yankees won American League pennant with a 5-3 victory. Above shot shows McCarthy at his gloomiest.

Lewicki Still Problem

TORONTO, Oct. 4—(CP)—The time of decision is at hand for Danny Lewicki, the Fort William boy who is one of the brightest young hockey stars to come up in years.

His choice lies between negotiating with Toronto Maple Leafs on a professional contract or facing suspension from both professional and amateur hockey.

The suspension threat was voiced today by president Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League who said in Montreal that "if the Maple Leafs have lived up to their commitments and Lewicki refused to sign a contract with them, his suspension will be virtually automatic."

Matters came to a head rapidly.

OFFERED JOB

First a Stratford dispatch reported Lewicki had received an offer of $4,000 a season for two seasons from the Leafs plus $2,000 for signing a contract and had countered with a demand for $10,000 a season for two seasons plus $2,500 for signing.

Then Conn Smythe, general manager of the Leafs, said the $4,000 offer was made Sept. 21. He had not heard from Lewicki since. Friday he sent word to the player to open negotiations for a contract under the commitment he made in Summer when he signed a renewal of his NHL C form with the Leafs. But there was no response.

Smythe said he then gave up hope of negotiating with Lewicki directly and turned the case over to Campbell.

Said the NHL president: "Lewicki already has signed an agreement with the Leafs and terms are contained in that agreement. That agreement is the NHL form C which gives the Leafs the right to negotiate for his services as a pro. Less than two months ago, Lewicki renewed his form C agreement with the Leafs."

SIGNED AT 16

Lewicki has been in the news ever since he first signed a pro C form when he reached his 16th birthday. Providence Reds of the American Hockey League beat other clubs to his services when he was playing with Fort William. He wound up that season as a farm member of the Port Arthur team which won the Memorial Cup-two seasons ago.

The Leafs bought from Providence the rights to negotiate with the boy and the deal was reputed to involve the largest sum ever paid for an amateur.

Last season Lewicki played with Stratford Juniors who paid $3,000 to Port Arthur for his release. He refused to play with Toronto Marlboros, part of the Leaf hockey empire.

Grid Cakes

By JOHN McLEAN

I must have been at the wrong ball game. Ten thousand Edmontonians can't be wrong.

I'll not only eat Grid Cakes, I'll eat crow.

My phone has been doing the rhumba since yesterday morning.

"Hobbs didn't drop that ball. It was Lougheed," they have been bellowing at me.

O.K. So it was Lougheed. He should have caught it.

Henry Singer tells me Esks' line was holding.

Well, I was at the wrong park, so perhaps Stamps were busting through somebody else's line.

And they say Clarkson took a swing at that Spaith pass and missed.

Suppose you can't blame a guy for swinging.

JUST PLAIN CAKE

The lads and lasses who've been dialing my number take exception to my reference to the "hootch-slugging guys and gals" at Saturday night's game.

I'll back down on that one, too. Now that I come to think of it, there were a few people drinking just plain Coke.

And I don't object to sweet young things bouncing up and down on the greensward, either. Their efforts at cheerleading were solid and well-meaning.

But a football crowd doesn't need to be told when to let out with a whoop. Regimented whooping is never as much fun as the free-for-all variety.

Perhaps I should add that Saturday's game was one of the best go-danged football productions I've ever seen.

Any further complaints should be mailed to me at Podunk, Anaheim or Kukamonga. I won't be there.

Junior Puck Schools Opening This Week

Junior hockey schools will be in session at the Capital City Gardens later this month.

Harvey Williams of the South Side Athletic Association announced last night that his organization would hold a two-day school, commencing tomorrow night and finishing Thursday.

The South Side school will be open from 8 to 31 o'clock each night under the direction of junior coach Gordon Pettinger. Pettinger broke into the National Hockey League after a junior career in Regina, playing with New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings.

OTHER SESSIONS

Canadian Athletic club president Derry Derrington said last night that he was still waiting for ice from Exhibition Association officials.

He expects to get it some time this week, probably the same day as South Side.

Edmonton Athletic Club will move into the Gardens for a three-day period from October 11 to 13 inclusive. Morey Rimstad, former Flyer stickout and an EAC junior himself years ago, will be in charge.

Maple Leafs have arranged to have their school run from October 17 to the 19. Ted Allard will direct the Leaf hopefuls through three afternoon and two night sessions.

And on the senior hockey beat comes the report that Dutchy Van Dorp has secured his release from Regina Caps . . .

Leafs Meet All-Star EAC Team

An all-star EAC team will meet Maple Leafs in an exhibition football game at 8:30 tomorrow night at Clarke Stadium.

Though line-ups are not yet available, EAC's will not be picking up any high school players, as has been previously reported. Doug McNabb, Bill McNally, Bill Kirkwood, Bart Gibb, and Red Dunsworth are among those joining the Clubmen.

EAC's seem to be having a difficult time, what with coaches not showing up for practises, and thieves breaking into their equipment lockers.

High school football game between Garneau-University and Westglen slated to be played Wednesday, will be played 8:30 Friday, at Clarke Stadium.

Charlie Keil New Boxing Club Prexy

Charlie Keil was elected president of the Edmonton Boxing Club last night, succeeding John Tansey.

Other officers selected were vice-president Al Lee, secretary Andy Daniel, equipment managers Dan Martin, Claude Biddell, and Mike Danyluk.

Alf Tansey will again coach the boxers and Daiziel and Lee will act as physical training instructors.

EBC will officially open the winter season at the Gymsonder-the-Gem Thursday night at 7:30. Classes will be held every Monday and Thursday at the same hour throughout the winter.

Coach Tansey said last night that he hopes to have more than 35 boys under his tutelage this season.

Auto Prizes For 'Spiel Arrive

Two of the four cars being given to the winning rink in the Alberta Commercial Traveller's bonspiel arrived in town yesterday.

The vehicles—of the Chevrolet and pontiac species—are on display at the local General Motors agency.

The bonspiel, in aid of the northern Alberta crippled children's fund, commences October 31 and continues for one week.

Spiel chairman Ted Maifs announced last night that 12 to 15 Edmonton rinks would likely be entered before entry closing date on Friday.

Among those entering yesterday were Art Simpson from Regina, George Wedd of Vermilion, and J. H. McCue of Faust.

Royals Back In Running

MONTREAL, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Montreal Royals got back into the running in the Little World Series last night with a 7-3 win over Indianapolis Indians, leaving the series standing two to one for the Indians.

The Royals scraped through on three hits off Mel Queen, two of the hits coming in the fifth when, aided by an error, the Royals got all their runs. Queen was replaced for a pinchhitter in the seventh and Chet Johnson held the Royals hitless the rest of the way.

Don Bankhead held the Indians to five hits, an error also figuring in the Indians' lone run in the sixth inning.

Bankhead struck out six and walked four. Three times the infield combination of Bobby Morgan and Rocky Bridges came to his help with three fast double plays.

A crowd of 9,956 paid to see last night's game. The teams move now to Indianapolis for the remainder of the best-of-seven series.

Bowling Meet

Annual meeting of the Edmonton Lawn bowling Club will be held in the club house tomorrow at 8 p.m. Officers for the next 12 months will be elected and all members are asked to attend.

Riders Get Hot On East Track

TORONTO, Oct. 4.—(CP)—A veteran jockey and a 17-year-old apprentice continued yesterday to outshine throughbreds at the suburban Long Branch race track. Together they added six straight wins to their near record-breaking score for the season.

Both veteran Pat Remillard and Charley Bright were born in the United States and each is booting for all he is worth to capture the jockey championship of Canada.

Remillard rode his first win yesterday aboard the favorite Argyroula in the first. His three other wins of the day—to bring his season's total to 74—were Last Kiss in the fifth, Prince Aethel in the sixth and Idle Hero in the eighth.

Bright rode two winners yesterday to bring his season's total to 77. In the second he was aboard Dexlovely Lil and in the third brought in the long-shot, Dune.

Last year Jockey Frank Dougherty rode 91 winners.

"We just had to make a change," said Clark Griffith, club president.

Griffith said no successor will be named for the time being.

NO HEADLINE HUNTER HE

Maybe 'Silent' Frank Currie Has the Right Idea at That

By JOHN McLEAN

For a guy who served time in the Quebec Senior Hockey League, Frank Currie can be awfully strong and silent.

He obviously wasn't contaminated by close contact with the drum-beating ballyhoo artists who abound on the banks of the St. Lawrence.

As a matter of fact Edmonton Flyers' coach comes up with more "no comments" than Vishinsky.

But this isn't a criticism of Frank Currie's habit of refusing to climb out on limbs. Maybe the guy's got something.

There are plenty of coaches who have wished countless times they'd kept their traps shut. Currie will never lose sleep over something he told the sports writers.

Currie tells them nothing.

But I can't help wondering how he brushed shoulders with men like the great T. P. Gorman without taking on some of his "color."

The Great Gorman has never been known to pass up a headline. He'll go out of his way to "dream up" a yarn if there isn't one on the surface.

Gorman will tell you his Ottawa Senators are going to win the Allan Cup, his ball team is a cinch for the pennant and that his race track will pay off the greatest prices ever.

Some of the time he'll be right. Most of it he'll be off base. But he'll get on page 1 five days a week.

Frank Currie won't make the front page until he wins another hockey championship.

And how can we tell if Currie is going to win another hockey title? He's not saying, that's for sure.

But perhaps its unfair to compare Frank Currie with the fabulous Tay Pay.

Contrary to public opinion, the words "supercolossal" and "ultra-terrific" were not coined in Hollywood.

Gorman's been using them for years.

And maybe Edmonton is lucky Frank Currie has never heard of such words.

A "supercolossal" team would more or less have to win the Allan Cup.

But Mr. Currie will never have to back down on a statement. He doesn't make statements.

P.S.—Whether Currie likes it or not, I think the Flyers look good.

STAN Moher ON SPORT

Stan Moher is covering the World Series and in his absence guest columnists are pinch-hitting for him. Today's stint is by Annis Stukus, Eskimo football coach and former Toronto sportswriter.

My Greatest Moment

It's a funny thing about football but if you ask most of the gridders who have been around the moleskin circuit for some time what their biggest moment over the years was, they'll probably tell you about the times they got their teeth kicked in.

It came to mind the other day when I ran across a pocket book recounting various "greatest" days in football by some of the big guns who made football history across the line.

Thinking back on 12 grid campaigns and some of the hum-dingers we used to have with Hamilton Tigers when they were flying high, wide and handsome and then Ottawa Rough Riders and the days of the beef trust, all I could remember was the year I became president of the Argonaut "One Minute Club."

That was one organization we didn't want any part f, but over the years it gained quite a membership—unpopular as it was.

There was only one way to obtain your entry into this select group—by getting crocked after being in a football game for only a minute! Easy but painful.

Popped Ligaments and the Presidency

I'd become an honorary member the previous season by just lasting past the minute mark in a game against the Tigers before getting a kick in the temple that left me cold until after half-time and put me in the hospital for three days with a concussion.

Little Harold Arnup—he weighed all of 140 pounds in full uniform—had become candidate for president that season by tackling Babe Ryan, 230-pound fullback for Montreal, just as one of the Argo secondaries, a 185-pounder, hit Ryan from behind.

Arnup took the 415 pounds of muscle head-on—still insists that someone threw the grandstand at him because he still doesn't remember hitting Ryan. He didn't come to for almost an hour.

Jack Young, who popped ligaments in his knee first play after relieving at guard; Wes Cutler and Bill Bryans, two ends who conked themselves on an opening kick-off as they raced each other to see who could hit the ball-carrier first—and tied; and a couple of other lads were soon inducted into the club.

The organization didn't add any new members for quite a spell, then elected yours truly to the presidency in a hurry.

I was the first to get it twice—did it so quickly that total elapsed time came to considerably less than two minutes.

Led Off By the Hand

We were playing Montreal—we could out-score 'em most of the time but you'd never know who the winner was looking at us after the scrap, or, I mean, game, was over.

Lew Hayman sent me into the game with instructions to call an end-run because their secondaries were playing tight. I must have tipped it off because when the ball eventually got to me as third man on the sweep, four Montrealers were waiting for me.

I tried to beat them to the sideline, made it just as three of them hit me. The fourth got up just in time to put his toe right into the way of my face as I hit the ground.

One play and they led me off by the hand with a two-inch gash under my right eye, a beautiful shiner and a very low opinion of Montreal hospitality.

The boys elected me president right there and then. That was a great day.

I could have just as easily have had my head kicked off, which would have made it very hard to explain to my mother. Especially after she'd given me permission to play because I'd guaranteed things like that didn't happen even though football was a robust game.

TIES FOR TEAM

Esks Ready For Road Trip

A local haberdasher named Singer had a tie to fit every member of the Eskimo football club last night in appreciation for their efforts against Calgary Stampeders Saturday.

VETERAN shooter Larry Peel, above, won high aggregate honors at Edmonton Garrison Rifle Association's annual summer outdoor shoot held recently. He will receive his prize at general meeting in Naval Barracks Oct. 11.

Maybe if the Edmontons stop the Calgarians this term they might rate a tie with trimmings, i.e., suit, shirts with French cuffs, topcoat, etc., from supporter Singer.

Maybe.

Anyhow, today everyone is satisfied that Eskimos are some shakers as a football club after all.

GOOD SPIRIT

Last night the players displayed the best spirits in a week, prepping for their forthcoming road trip to Regina and Winnipeg.

The way the schedule stands Esks meet the Blue Bombers in Winnipeg Saturday and tangle with Roughriders in Regina on Thanksgiving Day.

Guard Alex Romaniuk threw his knee out of joint last night, emulating the action of his pal Red Stoker last week. However, both will be in the Eskimo party leaving Edmonton Thursday night.

Pete King, vicious-tackling end from Montreal, has a severely strained back and Chuck Fenenbach still appears to be under the weather from a bout with the 'flu.

It is doubtful if Ken Sliuman, former Calgary player who lined up with Eskimos for the first time Saturday, will make the trip. Business commitments may prevent him from travelling.

Tom Mason is being groomed as third-string quarterback in the event Bill Stukus or Chuck Fenenbach is injured.

Irish Red, fine imported mascot with the team, will make the trip. The red Irish setter has been boarding at a local hound hostelry since coming here two weeks ago and has been on hunting trips with the Bulletin sports staff.

LOOKING towards great season for Edmonton Flyers are Jim Paul, managing director of Edmonton Exhibition Association and coach Frank Currie. Paul is man in charge of business end while Currie produces results on ice.

A BUSY MAN

Jim Paul Man Behind Local Hockey Scene

By HUGH WATSON

Edmonton hockey fans are among the most patient in the world of sport.

This is no idle statement. It comes from Jim Paul, genial managing director of the Edmonton Exhibition Association.

Take the case of options, for instance. Hundreds of people write in annually for an option on a hockey seat to watch their beloved Flyers.

Paul is the man behind the scenes. "Not many people know it," he reveals, "but each one of those requests are put on file. When an option is dropped, the next person in line gets first chance."

A quick estimation given by the friendly puck enthusiast gives 500 as the current number of requests presently on file.

Joe Phan misses two games, say, and he's out. His option's dropped out the window and the next man takes up the slack.

In this way, Paul comes to the conclusion that our local fanatics are patient. At least they're still writing.

Probably Paul's proudest achievement during the past few months has been the facelifting job done on the Capital City Gardens, formerly known as the Arena. Approximately 1,100 new seats have been installed at a cost of $175 apiece.

"All we need is 175 games with each seat occupied and they're paid for," says Paul. "Every seat provides a good view of the ice surface."

As for future plans concerning the Gardens, Paul points out that at least another 1,100 seats can be added at the other end.

Maybe they'll be installed next year.

And as a parting shot he divulged, without naming the team, that the coming Allan Cup champs would be coached by Frank Currie.

Apart from that he wouldn't go out on a limb.

CAMPUS TIDBITS

Varsity Clan Start Training

By GORDON NAULT

Varsity athletes are getting down to serious training in preparation for the big inter-collegiate meet on October 15 at Saskatoon.

First basketball practice will start next week. The U of A has entered the inter-city basketball league.

★ ★ ★

Professor Van Vliet, Physical Education, says that the east has been contacted and plans are being arranged for an inter-collegiate hockey final under the Dominion Inter-Collegiate Hockey Union.

★ ★ ★

Tennis playoffs are yet to be arranged but such names as John Stott, provincial champion for 1948 and 1949, Eddie Trott, and R. B. McMillen promise a highly competitive season.

★ ★ ★

Golf scores for the 18-hole medal competition must be turned in by Saturday. Low 16 men will meet in match play commencing next week. Best four will represent Varsity at Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, in the 36-hole medal competition. An organization meeting for all-campus tennis club will be held 3:00 Wednesday at Athabasca Hall.

★ ★ ★

A touch football competition has been organized into a 12 team league. Tentative date for a cross-country championship run-off is set for October 22.

★ ★ ★

Herb McLachlin says that Varsity should make a good showing at the track meet, with such stars as: Ivan Head, sprinter, who holds numerous records in 100 and 220 yard dashes . . . Costa Chrysanthou, student from Greece, who throws shot-putt an easy 40 feet, and is also very handy with the discus. Costa broke the record in both shotputt and discus at the recent army meet at Kingston . . .

Jim Proudfoot from University of British Columbia should be one of the top javelin throwers, while Cal Edwards of Granum is a sure bet to cop honors in hop-step and jump, and broad jump.

★ ★ ★

Varsity athletes have been hard at work from four to six every afternoon in diligent practice, and every campus student is confident of the green and gold's success.

GORDY BELL SENT TO LOUISVILLE

MONTREAL, Oct. 4.—(CP) — General manager Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens announced last night that goalie Gordon Bell, Canadiens' property, will join Louisville of the American Hockey Association immediately.

Bell, who played with Omaha of the United States Hockey eague last season, has been working out with the National League Canadiens at their training camp in St. Hyacinthe, Que., as understudy to the veteran Bill Durnan.

Bell is subject to immediate recall by Canadiens.

Buffs Have Big Puck Turnout

CALGARY, Oct. 4.—(CP)—About 45 youthful pucksters were on hand last night at the initial workout of the Calgary Buffalo Junior hockey club.

Although most of last year's players have graduated to senior or intermediate ranks manager Fred Hergert said it was unlikely the club would need to import players. Mostof those looking for a spot were homebrews and players who came up through the Buffalo Hockey Association.

"Once we get these players weeded down so we can get a look at the better ones, I think we'll have a real contender," Hergert said.

Miss Canada IV Skips Over Waters at 142 MPH

PICTON, Ont., Oct. 4—(CP)—Miss Canada IV roared over the measured mile at an unofficial 142.8 miles an hour last night, beating the world record of 141.7, but its bid for the world speed-boat record was held up when it failed to make its second lap over the course within 20 minutes—a regulation called for by the American Speedboat Association.

Association officials went into a huddle behind closed doors. They will announce later the official time and whether Harold Wilson, the Ingersoll, Ont., driver, will be given an overnight extension to complete the attempt.

If it is not granted it will go down as another failure for the sleek 2,500-horsepower boat which set the North American record of 138.6 miles an hour here Sunday.

Wilson said earlier that if the extension was denied him, it would mean that Miss Canada IV would not make another bid this year.

The sandy-haired driver said then that he was confident the boat could beat the 141.7-miles-an-hour record by a small margin. He added:

FAST TIME

"With some adjustments, she can get up to 150 miles an hour. That's what we will be out for next year."

It takes time to "iron the kinks" out of the high speedboat, Wilson said. Miss Canada IV was launched only four months ago.

Water on the Picton Bay course smoothed out considerably after Miss Canada negotiated the first lap. Chief mechanic Charlie Volker told reporters there was so much suction on the bottom of the hull that it was "just like a drag."

He added:

"We just couldn't get going."

"How did you do, dad?" Wilson's nine-year-old son, Ernie, asked him, shortly after Miss Canada was docked.

"I made it one way, son," he answered, with a big grin.

A touch of irony has surrounded practically every official appearance of the $100,000 boat with the 2,500-horsepower Rolls Royce Griffon engine.

Five weeks ago, at this little eastern Ontario town of 4,000 population, the weather held up for two days any attempt at an official run. On the third day, wind and water conditions were ideal, but Miss Canada acted up six different times with various mechanical faults and the attempt was abandoned.

Earlier, in the four-boat Harmsworth Trophy competition at Detroit, Miss Canada "developed something" and finished last.

Wilson was threatened with disqualification late yesterday when his speedboat failed to make the second leg of an attempt on the record. Regulations of the American Power Boat Association call for the second run to be made within 20 minutes of the first, but Wilson applied for an extension.

The extension was ruled out but permission for the new try today was granted. At the same time, officials announced that Miss Canada hit an official 142.2-mile-an-hour clip in yesterday's run—the second fastest by 141.7—but this achievement will not count, since only one lap in the trial was completed.

MIXED UP

Coast Bike Can't Pick Race Victor

VANCOUVER, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Did Ontario bicycle ace Bill Hamilton of Oshawa win the 62-mile road race Sunday or did he win the 59-mile race?

Answer to this vexed question is proving a major bone of contention among competitors in the British Empire Games bicycle trials, held here Saturday and Sunday.

They believe stylish Three Rivers, Que., star Real Lamothe was the actual winner of the gruelling distance race. Games officials named Hamilton as the winner, with Lamothe second and Winnipeg's Eric Oland third.

Competitors said today Hamilton completed only 59 miles of the distance—one lap short—and was far behind Lamothe at the finish.

Bicycle stars point out that Oland caught the flying Frenchman as they were nearing the finish wire, and cut him out from a clear run. Hamilton finished the race, to nip Lamothe on the finishing line. But, they say, Hamilton hadn't completed the full course.

Louis Still Packs Punch

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Joe Louis, retired world heavyweight champion, slammed Abel Cestac of Argentina all over the Griffith Stadium ring last night in the first of a series of exhibition boxing matches.

Only 3,565 fans turned out for the affair, paying $7,881 to watch the Brown Bomber. Louis weighed 226, 11 pounds more than when he defended his title against Joe Walcott last June.

Imports Top Eastern Point Race

TORONTO, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Two American imports lead in the eastern Canada senior football scoring race.

Statistics compiled by the Canadian Press show that Howie (Touchdown) Turner took over top spot among Big Four players with his dazzling 16-point display Saturday while Merle Hapes of Hamilton Tigers lengthened his lead in the Ontario Rugby Football Union by scoring six points.

Turner, a veteran among the imports, now has 40 points in six games, four points ahead of native son Joe Krol of Toronto Argonauts.

An ankle injury Saturday which may keep Krol idle for weeks will probably rob him of any chance of taking the scoring honors.

Royal Copeland of Argos is third in the Big Four with 30 points.

Hapes, who once played with the professional New York Giants and is playing coach of the Tigers, has 31 points in five games.

Joe Capriotti of Tigers, a Canadian product, ranks second in the ORFU with 22 points, all produced on kicking. Import Jim Caine of the Tigers is third with 21.

VEGREVILLE HISTORIAN J. B. HOLDEN
. . . Remembers Place from Homestead Days.

BIRTHDAY TODAY

Friendly Faces On Main Street

By Jim Sherbaniuk

VEGREVILLE, Oct. 4—A man who can refer to anybody he meets on the streets of Vegreville as a close friend is J. B. Holden, former mayor and most popular old-timer in the district.

He can still be found in the real estate office where he has carried on business for 30 years. His office, which could well be called the "old curiosity shop" is stacked with records, most of which constitute the only History of Vegreville.

HOMESTEAD DAYS

Since he filed his own homestead in the Vermilion valley, long before Vegreville was thought of, Mr. Holden, or "Jim" as he's commonly called, has never lived anywhere else.

As one of the first to stake out a plot on Main street, he has seen the town grow from bald prairie to one of the most modern communities in the province, and largely the result of his efforts.

Mr. Holden has devoted most of his life to public service, first as MLA and later as mayor of the town for 24 years and member of the first school board.

He was one of the 25 members elected to the first legislative assembly in Alberta.

ROOT OR DIE

His constituency stretched from Chipman to Lloydminster and from the North Saskatchewan river half way to Medicine Hat, now represented by nine members.

Born in Singhampton, Ont. on Oct. 4, 1876, which makes today his 72rd birthday, he was brought up under the old tradition of "root, hog, or die," in other words, work or starve—and he worked.

When he was 16 he owned his own flour mill and from there on worked as fur trapper in the Klondike, grain buyer in Strathcona, freight-checker in Leduc and finally farmer and real estate man in Vegreville.

To illustrate the sturdy stock from which he came, Mr. Holden retains a full head of auburn hair.

An ardent supporter of all worthwhile community affairs, Mr. Holden is responsible for innumerable municipal improvements. From the time he was elected as mayor in 1915, he has strived to make the town more prominent.

To the people in Vegreville, Mr. Holden and his office are as much a part of the town as the streets and avenues.

Cafe Changes Hands

SIBBALD, Oct. 4—The Sibbald Cafe has changed hands. Previous operators Mr. and Mrs. J. Steven have left for Wainwright, and the restaurant is now under the management of Mr. and Mrs. I. Vold of Sibbald.

Mother of Groom Present For Golden Wedding Fete

PONOKA, Oct. 4—Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Autin, pioneer residents of Alberta, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Sept. 28.

The couple were wed in Northland, Nebraska and three years later came to Alberta.

They farmed north of Edmonton until 1915 when they came to Ponoka.

A reception was held for about 150 guests at their home.

Mrs. Autin was assisted by her two daughters Mrs. E. Nelson, Mrs. Reese Jones and daughter-in-law Mrs. Earl Autin. Their sons of Earl and Fred Autin, were also present.

Presiding at the tea and coffee urns were Mrs. F. James, Mrs. H. Stretch, Mrs. William Hoar, Mrs. J. Walcott, Mrs. J. W. May and Mrs. C. C. Reed. Assisting were members of the Grand Meadow local F.W.U.A. of which Mrs. Autin is a member of long standing.

The couple was particularly honored by having with them Mr. Autin's mother, Mrs. Laura Autin, of 21060 108 Street, Edmonton, who recently celebrated her 90th birthday.

Among gifts for Mr. and Mrs. Autin were a silver tea and coffee service from their children, a cameo brooch and gold tie pin from the grandchildren; a cabinet radio from Ponoka community and a mantel ornament in the form of a horse from the livestock pool of which Mr. Autin was manager for many years.

Rev. T. Elgar Roberts officiated for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Hepner of Edmonton, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. K. McLeod of New Waterford, Cape Breton Island, N.S.

Pink and white streamers decorated the church and the altar was banked with palms, ferns, and baskets of mums and carnations. Silver doilies, tied with pink and blue ribbons, marked the guest pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional gown of white satin, with an off-the-shoulder net yoke bordered in lace caught with pearl clusters. The gathered skirt was caught up with bows to reveal an underskirt of lace.

RHINESTONE JEWELRY

Chapel veil and cascade bouquet of red roses completed the bridal ensemble. As her only ornaments, the bride wore the bridegroom's gift of rhinestone necklace and earrings.

Attending the bride were Mrs. G. C. Hepner, matron of honor, and Miss Lois Hepner, bridesmaid.

They were frocks in identical models of blue and pink taffeta, styled with off-the-shoulder necklines, net yokes and flared skirts. They wore matching mittens and finger tip veils caught with carnations, and carried mixed autumn flowers.

Flower girls, La Donna Hepner and Gayle Munro were frocked in pink and blue and carried mixed bouquets.

Little Keith Munro was ring bearer, wearing Scottish kilts and carrying the rings on a white satin cushion.

Girl Bank Clerks Will Lose Dowries

LONDON.—(CP)—The young lady who works for the Old Lady of Threadneedle Street is going to lose her dowry.

In other words, the Bank of England has decided that its 3,600 single women employes will no longer receive a cash sum on marriage.

The dowry was started in 1914, when it was still thought that a woman's place was in the home. Women with long service sometimes received as much as £100 ($400).

The ban on dowries follows a decision last March that women who marry may remain in the employment of the bank, which for many years has been familiarly known as the Old Lady of Threadneedle street.

Overseas Wives' Club will meet in the YWCA South Hall tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. There will be election of officers for the coming year, and all members are urged to attend.

Conflicting Labor Laws Are Rapped

Mosher Wants Federal Control And No Provincial Legislation

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Federal control of all labor-management relations throughout Canada was urged today by A. R. Mosher in his presidential address to the annual convention of the Canadian Congress of Labor.

At present there is divided jurisdiction on labor relations between the dominion and the provinces, and Mr. Mosher said "certain interests" favor this in the hope that weak legislation in one area will retard progress in other sections.

(Under the federal labor code, the dominion has assumed powers over only railways, communications, shipping and such interprovincial industries. The C.C.L. has been urging it to take over jurisdiction over steel, coal, meat-packing and other entreprises located in more than one area of Canada.)

"The basic requirement for adequate labor legislation," Mr. Mosher said, "is recognition by our lawmakers that the subject must be dealt with on a national basis.

"We shall continue our attempts to convince the federal authorities that labor relations must be the subject of federal legislation exclusively, and it is hoped that the government will, at an early date, see fit to accept its responsibilities in this respect.

MORE POLITICAL ACTIVITY

The C.C.L. president also issued a call for greater political action by members of the Congress, which for some years has designated the C.C.F. as labor's political arm.

While collective bargaining and union organizing were important, the workers must get into the legislative field if they wish were to solve some of the major problems besetting Canada as a nation. Laws objectionable to labor could not be abolished, or favorable laws enacted, unless labor got representation in legislative bodies.

The recent federal general election had proved labor had not become politically-minded to the extent where it would give consistent support to any one political party.

"As a consequence," he declared, "labor has failed to obtain favorable consideration for many of the demands which it has made upon federal and provincial governments."

FEARS DEPRESSION

Discussing the industrial outlook, Mr. Mosher told the delegates that it now was clear the post-war boom was over. A recession had set in in the United States, and had communicated itself to Canada to some extent.

Undoubtedly, he said, there was danger of a depression in Canada. The government should be prepared to meet it or to deal with pockets of unemployment in specific areas. "The plans so far revealed are far from adequate," Mr. Mosher said.

However, there were certain factors—not existing in 1929—which made a major depression unlikely. These included stronger unions, unemployment insurance and family allowance. "All these help, though inadequately, to increase and stabilize consumer purchasing power," Mr. Mosher said.

NIGHT-FLYING PLANE USED BY POACHERS

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., Oct. 4.—(CP)—T. H. Fowke, chief game overseer for Timiskaming district, said yesterday that an airborne poaching ring is preying on wild life in the district.

Fowke says the ring uses an unlighted plane which flies at night, transporting illegal furs, along with moose and deer meat.

Fowke reported threats against game wardens and said also that the ring keeps them under constant surveillance so it will know where to operate without being caught.

City Visitor Hit, Robbed

Strong arm thugs early Sunday morning attacked a visitor to the city, knocked him unconscious and robbed him of $25.

Police today said Paul Goblin, of Redwater, was attacked at the corner of 102 avenue and 96 street about 4 a.m. Sunday morning, when he stepped out of his car.

It is believed two men attacked him from behind and knocked Mr. Goblin unconscious.

When he revived, police said that his wallet, containing $25 and a driver's license, was missing.

Toronto Pilot Is Crash Victim

Hill, 47, Toronto amateur pilot, died yesterday of injuries suffered when his light aircraft struck a tree and crashed in flames into a plowed field near Lake Rosseau, 110 miles north of Toronto. Safecrackers Get No Loot

Thugs in the city went unrewarded for their efforts Saturday night when they broke open a safe in the office of Norwood Foundry Co. at 9111-111 avenue.

Break-in was discovered Sunday morning by the watchman. Police said entry to the office was gained by forcing a door in the rear of premises.

Dial was knocked off the safe's door and the spindle punched out.

Several small drawers inside the safe were handled but no money was kept in the office, police said.

Anti-Reds Gain Strength For Election in Austria

VIENNA, Oct. 4.—(AP)—There are two predictions that can safely be made regarding the Austrian national elections next Sunday:

Austria will not go Communist and the coalition government between the right-wing Peoples party and the Socialists will continue.

The Communists may not even be able to return one candidate to parliament.

In the last elections, held in 1945, the Peoples Party won 85 of the 165 seats in parliament; the Socialists won 76 and the Communists won only four. This time the balance of power may shift to the Socialists, but there will be no landslide.

The Socialists, confident of victory, say they want to keep the coalition if they get into power. But if and when they get a plurality in parliament they want to make some changes. They want more say in running the Austrian economy, particularly as it is affected by the Marshall Plan.

The Socialists, who are bitterly anti-communist, envisage an Austrian Socialist State patterned after Great Britain—but not right away. Their plan seems to be to wait until they have a decisive margin in parliament before demanding extreme changes.

Actually, Austria is well on the way to being a Socialist state right now. Railroads have been nationalized for more than 80 years. Steel has been nationalized since the end of the war. Austria's health program is not as extensive as that of Great Britain, but her social security and labor laws are among the most advanced in Europe.

SIXTH store in city drug chain was opened by Corner Drugs here recently in Edmonton's new bus depot. Attractive design of new store adds much to new terminal and gives Corner Drugs another of city's finest stores. Interior of new location is well laid out, giving patrons easy access to all departments.

Sixth Corner Drug Store Opens in City Bus Depot

Proud indeed are Leonard Sanders and Frederick Beddome, co-proprietors of the Corner Drug Store chain.

In 18 years of pharmaceutical service in Edmonton, they have seen their business grow from one store to six.

The latest is the new store in the bus depot on 102 street.

Messrs. Sanders and Beddome opened their first Corner Drug Store at 102 street and Jasper avenue in 1933, soon after graduating from the University of Alberta.

EACH MANAGER

Three years later the second store was opened in the west end. Then came Nos. 3 and 4 in the Highlands and Garneau districts, both started in 1940.

Fifth store, in Alberta Avenue area, was opened in 1947.

The two chain store owners continue their own activities to the No. 1 store on Jasper avenue. Other managers are Will Carring-ton in west end, Jack Agnew in the Highlands, Colin Linston in Garneau, Eddie O'Farrell in Alberta Avenue, and Jack Dunlap in the new store.

Each Corner Drug manager is a co-owner—he receives a percentage of his store's profits each year.

In fact, all Corner Drug employees receive a percentage of the total profit. In addition, there is a government annuities pension plan, hospital insurance, and a pension form of group insurance.

Corner Drug 6th City Store Opens

Jack Dunlap To Manage Latest In City Chain

Corner Drug Stores have opened the sixth unit in the chain which began in 1933.

Newest of the stores which serve various parts of the city is located in the new union bus depot on 102 street.

Manager of the new Corner Drug Store is Jack Dunlap.

An eye-filling addition to the city's growing list of modern pharmacies, the new establishment is specifically designed to offer speedy and efficient service to the travelling public which passes through the bus depot.

IMPRESSIVE WINDOW

Front of the store on 102 street has impressive window display areas, illuminated by batteries of spotlights concealed in the ceiling.

Inner wall of the store also features large window areas.

Main lighting is supplied by powerful fluorescent units set flush in the ceiling. Adding to the modern lighting effects are modern spotlights which run along the upper edges of the walls.

The whole atmosphere of the store is one of brightness.

Store fixtures feature easy visibility. Counters are a cheery cream color, floors are a pleasant gray and maroon, and window blinds are gray with maroon tapes.

Among the special services the new Corner Drug Store will offer are a special counter of greeting cards, full line of Lederle's veterinary remedies for the many farm people that pass through the bus depot, and the line of popular Laura Secord chocolates and candies featured in all Corner Drug Stores.

Complete prescription stock will be maintained in the new store.

And like all Corner Drug units, the bus depot store will offer free [illegible]

Russ Over-Estimated, Ex-Envoy Declares

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—(AP)— The former head of the British Military Mission at Moscow says he feels it is extremely unlikely that Russia will wage a shooting war against the west during the next five years. This authority, Lt.-Gen. Sir Clifford Martel, said:

"I think Russia has been in a very weak position for a long time and I think perhaps they're showing a few signs of it at present."

As to the atom bomb:

"There seems little doubt that the Russians have an experimental bomb. But there also is very little chance of their having more than a few bombs in the next several years."

He said he felt "very definitely" there has been a tendency in the west to over-estimate Russia's capabilities.

Gen. Martel's views were given in an interview in London with the associate editor of U.S. News and World Report, weekly news magazine, and published today in a copyrighted article. Martel served in both world wars, went to Moscow to head the British military mission in 1946, held that post until he retired in 1944.

Some Boys and Girls Have Rabbits As Pets

Dear Tawasis:

Some boys and girls are lucky enough to have rabbits for pets. But whether or not you have a pet rabbit, you probably like the white or brown animals and like to hear stories about them.

There are many different kinds of rabbits. Some are white with fluffy hair, long ears and pink eyes while others are black, brown or a combination of brown and white. The pure black and white ones aren't common and they are very expensive to buy.

When boys and girls keep pet rabbits they immediately think of oats. The most expensive rabbits have the longest ears and when people buy rabbits they take particular notice of their ears.

Uncle Wiggily's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Everyone was having fun at Uncle Wiggily's County Fair, about the amusement rail.

There was much going on, from the whirling merry-go-round to the shooting gallery, that not many noticed the serious talk where Uncle Wiggily was standing near Bosun and the shipwrecked sailor dog on the deck of the raft.

Bosun who had pulled from his pocket his sooper dooper pop gun, that shot hot baked beans with tomato sauce, said to Uncle Wiggily:

"I wish you'd let me use my gun, sir?"

"No, Bosun, no! We want no shooting aboard my amusement raft except at the shooting gallery."

"Oh, I wasn't going to do any shooting at this ragged sailor pirate, Cap'n Wiggily, sir. I just want to make him tell the truth. He says he got those cuts and scratches on his face from fighting pirates."

"And so I did, Bosun!" The ragged dog spoke in a gentle, quivering voice. "The pirates sunk my ship and they cut and scratched me."

"There, Bosun, you see how it happened."

"Well, maybe so, Cap'n Wiggily. But what about the gold, Cap'n Wiggily? What kind of gold is it?"

"It's pirate gold, but I'm not a pirate. This pirate gold, Captain Wiggily, is what I'm going to show and exhibit at your County Fair."

"Do you see any objection o that, Bosun?"

"Well, no, I guess not, Cap'n Wiggily. Providing that Silver chap tells us how he got the pirate gold."

"I'll do that, Bosun. I'll spin the yarn for you."

"But first let me get you some hot sassafras tea, Captain Silver. Then you can tell your story."

The murdered lady brought a big bowl of the tea. Captain Silver drank it eagerly. Bosun ate some more hot baked beans from his sooper dooper gun and, after wiping his whiskers on the back of his paw, said:

"Now spin your pirate yarn—er—Mr.—er Cap'n Silver."

FRESH FRUIT

"I'll make it short, Bosun, sir. I sailed my ship, Red Rover, all around Frog Pond, peddling fresh fruits and vegetables. One night in a storm, I was boarded by pirates. They took over my ship because their own craft was sinking. And they put aboard my ship all the gold and treasure from their sinking ship. Then they ran my ship on a reef and went ashore on Ghost Island. There they hid the gold, but I know where it is. I made a map. I know where the pirate hidden treasure is on Ghost Island. Here is some of the pirate gold I took when they weren't looking."

"Pirate gold—a hidden treasure on Ghost Island." The eyes of Bosun began to sparkle. "If there is hidden treasure on Ghost Island, can't we go get it, Cap'n Wiggily, sir?"

"Why yes, Bosun I suppose we can, if Captain Silver has the map. It will be an adventure for me, I wonder—"

OIL

South Brazeau No. 4 Is Gasser

By Don Flach

Oil search in the Hanna area has proven unsuccessful as yet. Another well has been drilled and it is to be completed as a substantial gas producer. The well is South Brazeau No. 4 drilled on a 14,000-acre British American Oil Company farmout six miles north and east of Hanna.

The well went down to 4,660 feet to test the Devonian where it failed to get production then plugged back to the Lower Cretaceous where substantial gas showings had been encountered earlier.

Casing was penetrated at the Lower Cretaceous level with 64 shots from 3,742 to 3,758 feet and subsequent drillstem testing recovered the gas flow at the rate of 5,000,000 cubic feet daily in two minutes.

Interest in the well is divided 44-88th to British American which made the farm-out; 20-88th to South Brazeau; 13-88ths to North Continental Oil and Gas Co., and 11-88ths to Duvay Gold Mines Ltd.

Location of the well is lsd 2-36-31-14w4.

PACALTA 2A PRODUCING

In the Whitemud area, New Pacalta No. 2A has been completed as a successful producer just 200 feet south of where the No 2 well was abandoned as a failure. Completed at 4,087 feet the well is reported to be producing at the rate of ten and one-half barrels hourly under restricted flow and to have a favorable gas-oil ration.

At the nearby Alberta Oil Leaseholds No. 3, coring is proceeding at 4,055 feet.

In the Pincher Creek area, Schrempp No. 1 is preparing to run a drillstem test at the 12,562 feet level. Upton No. 1, 30 miles south of Stettler, is making hole at 4,561 feet. Tests of several horizons during the drilling process have failed to disclose likely showings. The well is expected to contact the limestone about the 5,000 feet level.

At Redwater, Gulf Pich No. 11 and No. 12 are nearing completion and are preparing to swab into production. No. 11 is at 3,275 feet and No. 12 at 3,268 feet. Two more wells are being drilled on the Shkolny holdings of Gulf in the Redwater field. No. 11 and No. 14 have set surface pipe.

SURFACE PIPE SET

Texaco-McColl B-6 and B-5, in the Redwater field, have both set surface pipe and are waiting on cement this morning. C-1 is at 2,702 feet and A-4 is at 2,070 feet.

British American's No. 5-5, in the north central section of the Redwater field, is believed to have set a new record for the Redwater pay zone. It contacted the top of the D3 161 feet above the established water line. At last report the well was at 3,110 feet and planned further drilling into the formation.

B.A. No. 4-5 on an adjoining subdivision contacted the D-3 last week at 160 feet above the water line. Bottomed at 3,266 feet the well is preparing to go on production.

Amerada Petroleum Corporation has completed its 11th well and is preparing the 12th for production. Amerada Crown A No. F33-16 at 3,232 feet rates a daily flow of 1,461 barrels after a 24 hour test. No. 1-34-16 at 3,248 feet is running its potential test.

Medium heifers sold mostly at 13.00-15.00, with a few good up to 16.00.

TORONTO, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Prices bucked their way steadily upwards despite early selling on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Early declines were wiped out in mid-session and all major groups began a slow, steady climb.

Industrials were ahead on gains ranging up to more than a point and golds and base metals found moderate support in the brisk dealings. Western oils continued recent firmness. Volume was about 1,-550,000 shares.

Donalda Mines, featured in golds, turning over about a fifth of the day's volume in continuing yesterday's strong advance.

Seniors showed fractional gains and junior advances ranged up to about 15 cents.

Demand Lifts New York Issues

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—Fresh demand streamed into the stock market today, lifting the general price level around the high for the year.

Leading issues — including a couple of steel stocks—advanced fractions to more than a point, some of their best prices for 1948.

Business was almost double yesterday, when volume dropped below 1,000,000 shares for the first time in more than two weeks. Turnover was at the rate of around 1,300,000 shares for the full session.

U.S. Steel moved within a narrow price range, showing a [illegible] a good part of the day.

Higher prices were paid for Bethlehem Steel, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, Admiral Corp., Emerson Radio, Philco, Radio Corp., Santa Fe, Nickel Plate, Southern Railway, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, General Foods, International Paper, Eastman Kodak, Allied Chemical, Commonwealth Edison, Standard Oil (NJ), U.S. Gypsum, and General Electric.

Canadian issues were quiet. Dome Mines, McIntyre and Hiram Walker were unchanged. Canadian Pacific was down ⅛ while Distillers Seagrams was up ⅛.

2-Point Gains At Montreal

MONTREAL, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Despite sluggish trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange and curb market today, several issues had gains of up to two points near the close.

International Paper had a two-point gain to 66, with a turnover of 5,400 shares.

Papers, utilities and base metals were better after being uncertain as to which course to take earlier in the day. Banks, however, were still lower.

Paper issues to attach themselves to plus signs included Bathurst, Abitibi and Consolidated Paper.

In utilities and base metals, International Utilities, Power Corporation, Shawinigan, Winnipeg Electric, Consolidated Smelters and Hudson Bay Mining were on the plus side of the line.

Senior oils joined in the general upswing with BA Oil, Royalite and International Petroleum being minor gainers.

Donalda held the spotlight in the mines, with a 14-cent gain on a 27,-000-share turnover. Upper Canada advanced 25 cents.

Three-Cent Gain For Dalhousie

CALGARY, Oct. 4.—Dalhousie marked up another three-cent gain in closing at 47 on Calgary Exchange today. Several other western oils also posted advances. Volume was 101,500 shares.

Canadian-Vickers To Manufacture Oil Centre Tools

The Oil Centre Tool Company, Houston, Texas, announced today that it has entered into an agreement with Canadian-Vickers Ltd. of Montreal, Canada, which will allow the Canadian firm to manufacture and sell Oil Centre Tool company products to the vast expanding Canadian oilfield market.

The Oil Centre Tool Company has made available to Canadian Vickers organization its technical help and advice to insure that Canadian O-C-T products fully meet all material specifications and the rigid inspection requirements for which O-C-T products are known.

Canadian Vickers is a firm of long standing in the manufacture of specialized equipment and in the shipbuilding trade. It is one of the largest and best equipped organizations in the Dominion of Canada whose plant facilities lend themselves very readily to the manufacture of O-C-T products.

Prunes and Pears Tariff Jumped

OTTAWA, Oct. 4—(CP)—Canada has strengthened the tariff wall against the import of prunes and pears, two items of the fruits and vegetable category on which import controls came off Saturday.

December means a greater influx of United States fresh fruits and vegetables. However, the increase in tariff may slow shipments of United States pears and prunes.

Both items bear a 10-per cent duty, but the value has been increased by one-half cent a pound on pears and three-fifths of a cent a pound on prunes.

The increase went into effect Sept. 30, the day before import controls were lifted on the import of fresh fruits and vegetables.

London Stocks

LONDON, Oct. 4—(Reuters)—A sharp increase in profits for September brought no boom to South African goldmining shares on the stock exchange today. Enthusiasm was dampened by this being the last day of the trading period and although prices moved higher, the gilt was removed by profit-taking.

Other sections of the exchange were quiet and price movements small.

Industrials were uncertain and a little mixed. Irons and steels declined a few pence but slight improvements were shown by other groups.

Oil shares were dull. Foreign bonds and rails were idle and slightly irregular.

Stall Holders Seek Support For By-Law

Support for the revised market building money bylaw, now set at $100,000, will be sought by stall holders in the present market.

A well-attended meeting of stall holders last night set up a committee to raise money to publicize the project and urge its adoption by ratepayers on Nov. 2.

A request has been sent to city council's election committee asking for time for a market speaker on election campaign platforms.

The following committee will organize the market campaign: N. P. Finnemore, N. Jensen, Mrs. Opelt, P. Templeman, N. Peck, N. Lambert, Morris Gillian, J. Ritchie and D. Dreger.

Over one hundred invitations have been extended to business and professional men of the city and surrounding districts who will be the guests of local life underwriters.

Cyclist Suffers Minor Injury In Hit-And-Run

Cyclist George McCauley, 12048 111 avenue, was victim of a hit-and-run driver yesterday. He told police he was knocked to the pavement from his bicycle by a car at the intersection of 95 street and 111 avenue.

He suffered minor injuries to his right leg. No medical treatment was required.

New Pool For East End Seems Certain

Northeast section of the city is assured of a new indoor swimming pool—when the proposed east end high school is completed by the school board.

Mayor Harry Ainlay said today that a meeting of city commissioners and school board representatives agreed to the city contributing $45,000 toward capital cost of the building.

In return the public will have access to an indoor swimming pool after school hours, on Saturday, and during school holidays.

Fine Follows Barn Break-In

John Marchuk of 12836-129 street was fined $15 in police court today when he pleaded guilty to a wilful damage charge.

On the night of Oct. 2, Marchuk was observed by a night watchman removing a pane of glass from a barn, the property of McGavin's Bakery.

The watchman called police, who arrested him inside the building.

When questioned by police, Marchuk said he wanted to sleep in the barn instead of walking the long distance to his Calder home.

Bakery Hit By Blast

Damage estimated at $2,500 was caused at Central Bakery at 9610 Jasper avenue yesterday afternoon when a blast shook a baking oven.

Cause of the explosion, yet undetermined, is being investigated.

Brick work and doors in front of the oven were badly shattered by the blast. No one was injured in the blast.

Damage was covered by insurance. Bread production will not be curtailed by the accident said J. Furman, bakery manager.

HARMONY IN HOUSE IS STRICTLY MUSICAL

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—(CP)—There was harmony in the House of Commons yesterday. It wasn't the rare political harmony, however, it was strictly musical.

While party whips roamed outside the chamber hunting for members to take part in a vote on a CCF resolution, a group of Liberals sang a chorus from "Home on the Range."

Another group followed with "I've Been Working on the Railroad."

The latter was a timely choice. The Commons was preparing for a vote on a question involving pensions of railway workers.

Expansion in Selling Sends Grains Lower

WINNIPEG, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Oats, barley and rye developed easier tones in trading today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, under moderate expansion in selling and less aggressive demand. Hedging pressure was fairly liberal in oats and other grains.

Selling outweighed demand in oats, while liberal offerings in barley moved barley easier. Support was thin.

Rye lost its early small advances when American houses turned from buying to selling. Flax alone maintained firmness.

There were no export wheat allocations reported during today's trading.

Prices of class two wheat, for export to countries other than the United Kingdom, were unchanged.

Youth at Fair Urged as Aim

LETHBRIDGE, Oct. 4—(CP)—S. C. Heckbert of Vermilion, president of the Western Canada Fairs Association, yesterday told a conference of B class fair managers that the group should take a more active interest in young people's work.

"Young people's work is an integral part of fairs," Mr. Heckbert said. "To keep young people interested in farm work, we should take more interest in them and give them greater opportunities to display their handiwork."

The conference is being held to give fair managers a chance to study the methods of other managers in the circuit. Saturday the 14 managers and district agriculturists held a round table discussion of their problems.

Discussion during today's meeting centred around accommodation for the National Film Board at class B fairs on the prairie circuit. Seven of the 14 managers said they could not supply adequate space.

Mr. Heckbert suggested that the circuit should let the film board supply its own mobile unit. "After all, we supply free space to the film board," he said. "They should do something about their own accommodation."

More Hogs Being Raised

OTTAWA, Oct. 4—(CP)—The bureau estimated this fall's pig crop will be 17-per-cent higher than in 1948. It predicted increases in all provinces but Saskatchewan, where two years of poor crops in many areas have cut production.

The bureau estimated there were 5,163,000 hogs on Canadian farms June 1, compared with 4,463,000 at the same date in 1948 and the all-time record of 8,148,000 June 1, 1943.

The June population was higher in all provinces but British Columbia.

The spring pig crop was 20-per-cent bigger than in 1948 and the bureau said breeding intentions indicated another big crop this fall.

Hog numbers by provinces, with totals for June 1, 1948, in brackets, include: Manitoba, 303,000 (256,-500); Saskatchewan, 458,800 (390,-100); Alberta, 847,100 (833,900); British Columbia, 55,000 (59,300).

Sunday Sport Vote Is Set

TORONTO, Oct. 4.—(CP)—The issue of Sunday sports in Toronto—but not a wide-open Sunday including theatres and other entertainment—will go to the voters at the next municipal election.

City council last night amended an original motion which asked for a plebiscite to decide whether cocktail bars, racetracks, motion pictures and other entertainment centres should operate Sundays as on weekdays.

As amended, the question for the ballot read:

"Are you in favor of the city of Toronto seeking legislation to make amateur, professional and other forms of commercial sport legal on Sunday?"

Council voted on three motions and amendments before settling for the above amendment by a vote of 14-4.

Driver Fined After Smash

John Danyluk, no fixed address, was convicted of dangerous driving and fined $50 by Magistrate A. J. Millar in police court today.

Danyluk was arrested on Sept. 25 following an accident on the Grierson Hill involving three automobiles.

According to evidence, the car driven by Danyluk was proceeding up the hill and about to pass another car when it sideswiped a third car coming down the hill, glancing off and striking the car he was about to pass.

Damage to the two other cars consisted of badly damaged fenders and door.

Civic Officials' Arrival Delayed

City Planner Noel Dant's arrival in Edmonton to take up his duties has been delayed until Oct. 15, Mayor Harry Ainlay said today.

E. S. Bishop, newly-engaged superintendent of the city's welfare department, will reach the city Oct. 11.

On his arrival, he will have charge of the combined relief and welfare department, to be known henceforth as "Welfare Department," according to Mayor Ainlay.

Mr. Bishop will work with Frank Drayton, superintendent of the relief department, until the latter's retirement at the end of the year.

Union Reds Lose Strident Battle

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Communist party-liners in the Canadian Congress of Labor were thrown for a sharp loss yesterday when the CCL convention refused decisively to reinstate five suspended officers of the left-wing United Electrical Workers of America.

A 10-to-one majority of shouting delegates beat off an attempt at reseating National Director Clarence S. Jackson and four U.E.W colleagues, suspended by the Congress executive last spring for a "slanderous" attack on the Ontario Federation of Labor.

Outcome of the test of strength made it evident that the executive's proposed expulsion of the leftist International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers — to come up later at the convention — will go through without trouble.

Effect of the U.E.W. vote late yesterday was to leave that fourth biggest union in the Congress—it has some 34,000 members—without representation on the executive council of the C.C.L., its governing body between conventions. Mr. Jackson had been the U.E.W's council member.

UNION STILL WELCOME

The body of the union itself is not barred from Congress deliberations—it has a strong delegation at this convention. It was indicated the electrical union could have representation in the executive at a time it chose to put up an acceptable candidate.

The battle over banning the electrical officers was short, but intense, with U.E.W. spokesmen charging the executive with stifling freedom of speech in unions and the executive countering with claims that the U.E.W. chiefs were trying to take over the policies of the Communist Party of Canada.

Tito Speech Defies Russ

BELGRADE, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Premier Tito, accusing Russia of trying to "endanger a small people," has bluntly warned that Yugoslavia is ready to defend itself to the last breath.

In one of his toughest speeches since Yugoslavia's feud with the Soviet bloc began, Tito told his army officers that Russia "has been forcing its irons" against its one-time Communist partner.

AIMED AT RUSSIA

Unmistakably aiming at Russia, Tito said in a speech made public late last night:

"No one has the right, regardless of who he may be, to endanger a small people.

"We are prepared," the Yugoslav chief added, "to defend this country to the last breath, regardless whence the attack comes."

"It pays to live," he added, "but it pays to die as one should."

Texas Beaten By Hurricane

By PAUL ROSENFIELD
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 4.—(UP)—A mighty hurricane roared out of the Gulf of Mexico today, hit Houston with almost its full fury, and drove 50,000 persons out of their homes in 15 cities as it cut a swath through the Texas countryside.

The 100-mile-an-hour storm struck Houston in the early morning hours as the city's 750,000 residents cowered in their homes and basements or in public shelters.

Then it swirled away to the north through fairly open country.

As it swept off the Gulf, the small but powerful storm smashed communication lines, wrecked plate glass windows and blew trees across the landscape.

Winds hit 100 miles an hour near the storm centre, but began to die as the hurricane blew inland.

TOWN HIT HARD

The coastal town of Freeport on the Gulf shore, 50 miles south of here, appeared to have suffered its worst damage. All of its electric lighting poles were knocked out and the water pumping system failed during the storm.

Many trees smashed automobiles parked in the streets as they toppled.

Police officers patroled streets in the strickten towns and sheriff's deputies roamed the countryside south and north of here to prevent looting. Some prowlers were reported at Galveston when the storm swept near the big resort city.

Tides along the coast were dangerously high but no much feared disastrous tidal wave did not develop.

Anderson said water swept into lowlands and covered a 2½-mile area between Freeport and Angleton.

Glides Jet Safely

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Oct. 4.(AP) —Lt.-Col. Marion Carl landed a powerless jet fighter plane with little more than a flashlight and a prayer for guidance and then in a 40-mile glide after a power failure.

The 20th heavy anti-aircraft regiment will parade tonight at the Prince of Wales Armory.

World Series Forecast Hard as Majors Fight

By Leo H. Petersen
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(UP)—Whew, it was close, they all say, and the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers, recovering rapidly from the strain of their bruising pennant battles, agreed on only one thing today:

That the World Series opening tomorrow at Yankee Stadium figures to be just as tight.

If it is, the issue won't be decided until the ninth inning of the seventh game, for nothing could be closer than the two pennant races were.

LAST THREE HOURS

After battling only 16 days short of six months without deciding the winners, they finally were determined in the last three hours of the 1949 major league season on Sunday.

The rival pilots, Casey Stengel of the Yankees and Burt Shotton of the Dodgers acted coy and refused to divulge any information on their series plans.

But, like their players, they agreed the series was a toss-up; with each one confident his club will win.

"Just look at the two ball clubs," Stengel said. "And how can you pick between them?"

SHORT AND SNAPPY

Shotton, usually pictured as a gentle, kindly man, was short and snappy when it came to discussing the series, but he did not go far as to admit:

"Probably the breaks will decide the winner—just as they did in our pennant triumph.

"I said all winter long we were going to win the pennant. We did. Now I say we are going to win the series. We will."

TROPICAL SEAS

20,000-Mile Sail Jaunt Ends for 3 B.C. Men

VANCOUVER, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Three Vancouver men arrived home yesterday from a 20,000-mile voyage by sail through the romantic south seas and the thing they looked forward to most of all was "just a little touch of old winter."

The auxiliary 60-foot cutter Escapee brought back Phillip "Pip" Brock and Roo Fortune of West Vancouver, and Jack Wells of Vancouver—adventurous lads who left port of Vancouver in May, 1948, to see the Polynesian and their fabulous tropical islands.

They sailed first to San Francisco, then to Honolulu, Samoa, Fiji, Rarotonga, Aitutaki to Honolulu and out across the broad Pacific ocean to home . . . the longest leg of all.

Escapee left the Hawaiian Islands late in August, was at sea for 32 days before sighting the shores of British Columbia's rain-soaked coast. Then a passing trawler was their first fresh food in all that time.

Those tropical coral islands, the balmy breezes, the people, are something they'll never forget. But, back home, their main desire was "Just a little touch of good old winter!" said Jack Wells.

Old-Age Pension Scheme Proposed

Dominion-Provincial Meet To Talk Contributory Plan

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—(CP)—A dominion-wide contributory old-age pension scheme will be among matters discussed at the forthcoming dominion-provincial conference on the constitution.

Health Minister Martin told the Commons last night that discussion will inevitably arise at the conference on the attitude of the provinces toward the idea of giving the federal government power to introduce such a scheme.

HASN'T POWER

At present, the federal government does not have the constitutional power to bring in the plan.

Mr. Martin made the statements during debate on a resolution, sponsored by Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver East), which called on the federal government to co-operate with the provinces in formulating a national social-security scheme.

The resolution was still being debated at adjournment and thus moves to the bottom of the list of private members' resolutions. It probably will not come up again at this session.

So far, Mr. MacInnis said, many of the social-security measures had been introduced in piece-meal fashion. These had been introduced not so much because of government belief in them but because it was felt "politically expedient" to bring them in.

TREMENDOUS GAPS

There were tremendous gaps in the country's social-security legislation. There were no sickness benefits, for instance. Mr. MacInnis said that when a man is sick and unemployed he is more in need of assistance than a man who is unemployed but well.

Mr. Martin said the government has been co-operating all along with the provinces and that the general program in operation is a good one.

That co-operation would be continued and he hoped that before too many months there would be "good results."

A 30-second labor dispute occupied the Commons during most of the three-hour afternoon sitting.

It concluded with a formal divi-

MILLS BOMB IN GARBAGE NETTLES 'PEG

WINNIPEG, Oct. 4.—(CP)—A city workman raking over a truckload of garbage at the new $1,500,000 incinerator found a live Mills bomb, which experts said today could have wrecked part of the plant and killed or injured men working on the job.

Police officials said discovery of the hand grenade was only one incident in what appeared to be an epidemic of live-ammunition dumping in city garbage pails. They said the bomb came in with a load from the Weston district, but could narrow down its source no closer.

sion in which the Commons voted 105 to 38 against a CCF resolution asking that a Royal Commission be set up to investigate loss of pensions rights by men involved in Canadian Pacific strikes of 1918 and 1919.

The Progressive Conservatives, with exception of Chester S. McLure (PC-Queens), and Social Credit members lined up with the CCF on the resolution. J. L. Gibson (Ind.-Comox-Alberni), who sits in the Liberal ranks also opposed the government.

The dispute involved some 2,000 CPR employes who lost partially or completely their pension rights because they took part in the strikes.

The company contended that the stoppages constituted breaches of contract and that the pensions lapsed because of the break in service.

Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre) who sponsored the amendment, said that while the workers may not have a legal right to the pensions, they did have a moral right.

He estimated there are still some 2,000 employes affected by loss of pension rights.

Early Election Unlikely Says U.K. Labor Organ

LONDON, Oct. 4.—(CP)—The pro-Labor Daily Herald today throws cold water on talk of a close-at-hand British general election—but conceded changing political conditions might bring an early vote.

Ernest Jay, political correspondent of the Labor party's organ, writes:

"On the known facts and circumstances of the situation, both home and international, there will be no general election this year."

STILL POSSIBLE

But Jay adds that: "unforeseeable circumstances" might arise which would make an early election desirable.

The Labor government's full term does not end until next July, though the government can call a general election at any time.

Talk has been current recently that Labor might call such a "snap" election soon, hoping to secure another term before rising commodity prices—expected in the wake of currency devaluation—could turn the voters against the ruling party. Jay declared the chief argument against an election this fall was that two important measures now going through parliament would be lost, at least temporarily. These are the bill to nationalize the steel industry and another reducing the power of the House of Lords to delay legislation from two years to one.

Meanwhile, there was some measure of political house-straightening in the Conservative party household.

The Conservative central office said last night that Canadian-born Lord Beaverbrook still is in the party.

Friction between the party and the publisher had been reported widely following attacks in the Beaverbrook press on party members lukewarm to his empire policies.

'Hopper War Co-ordinated

WINNIPEG, Oct. 4.—(CP)—War against the grasshopper in the prairie provinces will be waged on an inter-provincial basis next year.

Plans for co-ordinating the prairie governments' anti-grasshopper campaigns will be laid at an inter-provincial meeting to be held Nov. 1 in Winnipeg, H. E. Wood of Manitoba Department of Agriculture said today.

The meetings will be attended by representatives of the prairie provincial governments, federal entomologists and the universities of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Forecast of grasshopper infestation on the prairies and in the northern United States will be studied.

Execute 1,223 Rebels

ATHENS, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The government reports yesterday that 2,150 persons have been sentenced to death since June 1, 1946, for taking part in Greece's Communist-led revolt and 1,223 have been executed.

Refusal to Take Oath Withholds Citizenship

VICTORIA, B.C., Oct. 4.—(CP)—Canadian citizenship papers were withheld from an applicant in county court today to await an Ottawa ruling on the question of swearing the oath of allegiance.

Linn A. Gale, American-born cost accountant, refused to swear the oath on the Bible on grounds he has no religion. He gave a declaration of allegiance instead.

LEGALITY DOUBTFUL

Judge H. H. Shandley accepted the declaration but held back the citizenship certificate until he could find out if granting it without the oath was legal.

Mr. Gale pointed out the Canada Evidence Act provided that witnesses who objected to swearing on the Bible could give evidence by affirmation.

Judge Shandley agreed, but said there was no similar provision in the Canadian Citizenship Act

"I AFFIRM"

In his declaration of allegiance Mr. Gale substituted the words "I affirm" for the words "I swear", and left out the phrase "so help me God" at the end of the usual oath of allegiance. He did not kiss the Bible.

Instead of "so help me God" he added:

"I do solemnly and conscientiously swear that I will fulfill this declaration."

Parking Pains Upset Calgary

CALGARY, Oct. 4.—(CP)—The City of Calgary and an organization which has helped to make the foothills city famous both appear to be suffering from a slight attack of growing pains.

City council decided last night to hold further discussions on the future of the city's "polo yards," which adjoins grounds of the famous Stampede.

The Calgary Exhibition and Stampede Co., which leases its grounds from the city for a nominal fee of $1 a year, would like the polo yard as a parking lot. Hundreds of people were turned away because of insufficient parking space last summer, the company claims.

One member of city council objected, however, that the cost of moving poles, power pipe, transformers and other outside hardware from the yard to another site would cost $450,000.

City council also turned down applications from the residents of nearby Windsor Park and Shouldice Terrace that these areas be incorporated in the city.

Mayor J. C. Watson said the city could not at present stand the expense which would follow if these areas were incorporated.

Canada Ships Idle At Coast

VANCOUVER, Oct. 4.—(CP)—"The toughest winter this port has ever suffered" was predicted by Vancouver shipping operators yesterday as plummeting shipping rates began to force Canadian vessels into harbor.

Sterling area tramps will slash Vancouver's grain trade, they predicted.

E. D. Riddle, president of Western Canada Steamships, said that while all his 12 freighters are still operating he could not say how long they would continue to do so.

Already in Vancouver inner harbor three 10,000-ton ships are swinging idly at anchor awaiting cargoes. A 40-per cent drop in sterling rates is making it impossible to operate, their owners said.

Enough mud has been dredged from the Thames river in England to build another Great Wall of China.

B.C. Will Not Sell Railway

VANCOUVER, Oct. 4.—(CP)—British Columbia's coalition government does not intend to offer the Pacific Great Eastern Railway for sale to the United States government.

Premier Byron Johnson said so in an interview here adding that the railway has a "great future" under B.C. ownership. When the extension from Quesnel to Prince George is completed, he said, it will start paying its own way.

Premier Johnson, en route to Ottawa, said he is prepared to visit Washington next week to discuss with U.S. government officials—possibly including President Truman—any possible plans for co-operation on the railway between the two governments.

TWO PROPOSALS

His visit to Washington was suggested in the U.S. senate by Washington state senator Warren Magnuson.

Premier Johnson indicated there are two alternative proposals he may place before U.S. officials.

He may suggest a new U.S.-built rail line linked with the PGE at Prince George to carry U.S.-originated traffic to Fairbanks, Alaska.

Premier Johnson may also propose that the U.S. aid construction of a PGE extension from Prince George to connect with the Alaska highway at Fort St. John.

Serious Drop In Beet Crop

LETHBRIDGE, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Sugar beet growers in southern Alberta today are suffering from a new menace that is causing sharp drops in tonnage and sugar content to the root crop.

The sugar beet louse this summer attacked the crop on a larger scale than ever before and widespread damage over the entire beet growing area in southern Alberta has resulted.

Some unofficial estimates place the damage as high as 10 per cent, while officials of Canadian Sugar Factories Ltd., in nearby Raymond, agree that the infestation "is more serious than ever before."

Sharp drops in yields have been reported from all sugar beet growing areas in the south, but the full extent of the damage cannot be ascertained without a thorough survey.

However, many fields are producing only three to five tons per acre, which is far below the 12-ton yields that is considered a normal crop here. One farmer in the Lethbridge northern irrigation district said today that "this year an 11-12 bushels an acre crop will be a big crop."

Nomadic Indians' Plight Stirs Sympathy in House

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—(CP)—Another echo from the battle between doctors and the Health Department involving the life of roaming Indians in Alberta was sounded yesterday in the Commons.

For the second time in five days F. D. Shaw (SC—Red Deer) fired the question at the government—What is it going to do about the health of the Indians near Rocky Mountain House, Alta. Doctors have declined to treat them until the Department increases its scale of fees.

Health Minister Martin said in a tabled reply that the Indians, which include 125 of the Sunchild Cree tribe and 200 of the primitive Chippewa, will continue to receive hospital treatment at Rocky Mountain House.

"There is every reason to believe that arrangements for hospitalization at Rocky Mountain House are satisfactory," Mr. Martin said. "The Indian health service regional superintendent in Alberta is continuing to negotiate with local physicians for the provision of professional services."

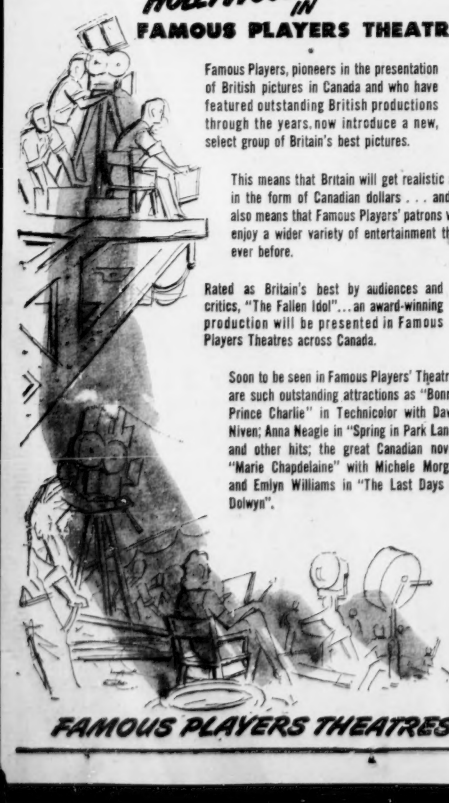

Mr. Martin said that while the Sunchild Cree Indians live in a reserve some 30 miles from Rocky Mountain House, the 200 Chippewans wander in the foothills and their highly nomadic life sometimes makes it difficult for Indian health-service treatment.

However, health treatment facilities were extended to both tribes. A doctor was hired on a fee-for-service basis, but he didn't go out to the reserve.

His fees were paid "in accordance with the prevailing schedule of fees which I applied uniformly across Canada." The doctor was not satisfied.

"In June, 1948, the Indian health annum stipend if this would be more agreeable, but he did not reply to this offer," Mr. Martin said. "Recently he signified his intention to cease services to Indians except as private patients."

Mr. Martin indicated the fees trouble did not extend to the Rocky Mountain House hospital. The rate paid to the hospital was $5 a day for adult patients and $1.25 for new-born children. "This rate was established May 1, 1948, and has not been under discussion since that time."
